Sallie's Temptations

(Copyright 1924—By Gladys Baker)

MR. WRIGHT BECOMES ACQUAINTED

Altho he had meant to be perfectly proper about delivering the message, father and Mr. Wright both heard Johnson's words. There must be a complex in every woman for occupying the center of the stage, for, even tho I knew the message was bad form it thrilled me to have someone clamoring for my presence.

I apologized and left the table. It was Ted. "Come on, Sallie, the gang's out-ine," he said enthusiastically. "We're going on a party out at Yates and gave Alma's dance the air. Make it snappy, we've got thermos bottles and gin—even a victrola. It's moonlight, and we'll have a swim later on."

"Sorry, Ted, but I can't make it this time," I began. "I'm having dinner with dad and one of his friends, making a guinea."

"Never mind that home-made stuff, ditch 'em, Sallie. You're the life of the party. We couldn't tank of leaving you behind." He dragged me by the hand.

I shook my head, remembering Marjorie's dare.

"Aw, come on Sallie, I'll call up your date, and fix it with Paul. You aren't going to break up a party, are you? Be a good sport, Sallie," he urged, "You always are."

Ted was on the right track now. I adored being called a good sport. Why not go? I argued. Dad would probably get on business or politics and then I wouldn't have a chance to see Mr. Wright alone. I could hear the rest of the crowd laughing and calling me to come on down.

I made up my mind. Running back into the dining-room, I exclaimed, "I hate to be rude, but they've come for me to go to the beach and I'll have to leave."

"But, Sallie, what about the dance?" asked Father, pushing back his chair. "Mr. Davis and I are closely associated in business and he will certainly expect you to be there."

"There's no use talking like that, Father, and what do I care, if the Davises do get mad. Their dances always are stick affairs, and no one goes, if there's anything else on."

"Sallie, I hate to oppose you, but this time I must insist, that you do not offend the Davises."

"Oh, very well then, Father, let's not have a scene." I concluded and flounced out of the room—if one could flounce in a slim beaded robe.

"I'll have to stay, I suppose and go on over to Alma's with Paul," I told Ted who was still standing by the door in the hall. "Shucks, I know you'll have a much jazziest time."

They began tooting the horn vigorously out in the car. If I don't hurry there'll be two of us out of luck—" announced Ted, "Well, so long, Sallie, better luck next time."

I returned to the dining room. I was glad dinner was almost over. There was a foolish lump in my throat. Everything had turned out so differently from the way I had planned.

As we were going into the living room the phone rang. I hurried to answer it.

Paul's voice, apologetic from the start, came over the line: "I'm terribly sorry, Sallie, but it will be impossible for me to take you to the dance. Dad has just wired for me to come up and help him take testimony in the Wells case and I'm leaving on the 9:45 for New York."

"Oh, that's perfectly all right, Paul, I didn't want to go anyway," I replied.

I was overjoyed. Now I might have a chance at Curtis Wright. I would have to work fast tho, because it was plain that I had not made the slightest impression on him so far.

"I was just going to say, Sallie," continued Paul, "I can get one of the other boys to stop by for you. There're droves of them who would be indebted to me for life, if I'd ask them."

"Save that choice line for the girls in the Winter Garden, Paul," I interrupted. "As a matter of fact I could kiss you for getting me out of it."

"Fine, I'll be right over," Paul responded, with his usual pep.

"Oh, go along with you, Paul, have a good time and I hope you get a kick out of your trip. Good-bye." I ended the conversation. My spirits soared.

Father and Mr. Wright were seated on the side porch. I went over and stretched out on the long, low swing with its myriad cushions, "squashy" and soft.

"Nothing except I've missed out all around. That was Paul at the phone, saying he couldn't take me to the dance and the other crowd's gone. You see Father, if you hadn't interfered," I added in an injured tone.

The end of the porch was bathed in dancing moonbeams that played hide-and-seek thru the swaying vines. The fragrance of star-jasmine was intoxicating. I turned my head and looked up at the sky.

"Did you ever see such a love of a moon?" and I put as much pathos in my voice as I could command. Then I glanced in the direction of Mr. Wright. I caught him looking at me. I believed in mental telegraphy and I used some high-powered concentration on Dad.

He tumbled. "That's too bad, kiddie, that I spoiled all your fun. Tell you what, Wright, I've had a busy day of it, suppose you and I discuss those matters tomorrow and you and Sallie go on to the dance."

"But Father," I broke in, "maybe Mr. Wright has some other plans."

"On the contrary," he was quick to answer, "I shall be delighted to be made use of, and since I have just accepted your father's very kind invitation to be his guest while in town, this is an ideal opportunity for me to make the acquaintance of my charming hostess."

Agrigraphs

The nimble sixpence does the work of the slow shilling.—Old English proverb.

Uncle Ab says the man who is too easily satisfied has a pretty dull life.

And speaking of threshing, are the granaries all cleaned out, rat holes plugged, and door-boards ready for use?

Have you any barbed wire on your farm? It's generally nothing more than a cruel way to make the stock pay for a slovenly job of fencing.

He who sows the ground with care and diligence acquires a greater store of religious merit than he could gain by the repetition of ten thousand prayers.—Zoroaster.

New York City is a large user of poultry products. In 1923 it took 2,576,300,400 eggs, or an average of 588,196 dozen eggs a day. Of dressed poultry 163,949,799 pounds are eaten each year.

Do you know where you live. Of course, but how would you tell anyone just where it is? The clock system rural index will help you tell them, and the college of agriculture at Ithaca has bulletin F 158 waiting for you with all the information about it.

GENUINE buying opportunities are all that interest ad-readers. Offers interest people who—through reading much advertising—KNOW, must be very real price concessions, and must be made on very real values.

Farm and Stock Market

In eastern wholesale fresh meat markets beef is weak to 50c lower; veal is firm to $2 higher; lamb is firm to $1 up; mutton $1 lower to $1 higher and pork loins weak to $2 meats: Beef $16-17.50; veal $16-20 lower. August 18 prices good grade lamb $23-27; mutton $15-18; light pork loins $23-28; heavy loins $14-21.

Fruits and Vegetables

Eastern shore Va., and Maryland Irish Cobbler potatoes closed 50-75c higher at $2.3 per barrel in leading markets; $2-2.25 f.o.b. Onley, Va. New Jersey Cobblers advanced 30-40c bringing $1.35-1.85 sacked per 100 pounds in eastern cities; $1.40-1.50 f.o.b. New Jersey points. Kansas and Missouri Cobblers steady to firm in Chicago at $1.25-1.45 carlot sales; 95c f.o.b. Kaw Valley district. Peaches stronger. Georgia Elbertas mostly $2-2.75 per bushel basket and six basket carrier, top of $3 in Pittsburgh and Boston. North Carolina Elbertas $2.50-3, top of $3.50 in Baltimore. Georgia watermelons sold firm at $2.50 bulk per car for 23 pound Tom Watson in Chicago. Thurmond grays 24-30 pound average, $250-400 in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh. Maryland and Delaware cantaloupes weak. Green meats and salmon tints brot $1.25-1.75 per standard 45 in eastern cities. California salmon tints $3-50-54.

Dairy Products

Butter markets firmer during the week altho undertone of the market was more or less nervous. Reports indicate continued heavy production and storage holdings being added to the 31 million pounds surplus, on August 1 as shown by the total U. S. report. Closing prices on 92 score New York 38½c; Chicago 36½c; Phila. 39½c; Boston 38½c. Cheese markets easier and trading lighter. Heavy storage surplus and continued heavy production are factors of importance. Price change during the week slight. Closing prices at Wisconsin primary market August 16: Single Daisies 19½c; Double Daisies 18½c Longhorns 19½c; Square Prints 20c.

Grain

Grain markets weaker and prices 1-3c lower than new high level reached Saturday. Wheat prices still 4c up for week and corn about 9c higher. Oats gained 5½c during week. Heavy hedging sales of spring wheat and continued heavy receipts of winter wheat weakening factors today. Quoted Aug. 18: No. 1 dark northern spring Minneapolis $1.34-1.52½. No. 2 hard winter Chicago $1.37½-1.33; Kansas City $1.22-1.31½. St. Louis $1.28 No. 2 red winter Kansas City $1.35 St. Louis $1.40-1.44. No. 3 red winter winter Chicago $1.35. No. 2 mixed corn Chicago $1.22-1.23.

No. 2 yellow corn Chicago $1.22-1.24; Minneapolis $1.19-1.20½. No. 3 yellow corn Chicago $1.21½-1.23½; Minneapolis $1.18½-1.19; Kansas City $1.13; St. Louis $1.19-1.23. No. 8 white corn Kansas City $1.11½; St. Louis $1.18. No. 3-white oats Chicago 53½-55c; St. Louis 53-53½c; Minneapolis 51½-51¾c; Kansas City 53c.

Hay

Hay market practically unchanged. Good demand for the small offerings of high quality timothy but low grades are hard to move even at reduced prices. Alfalfa market steady with mills best buyers. Quoted Aug. 18: No. 1 timothy Boston $30.50, New York $30.50; Pittsburgh $20, Cincinnati $19, Chicago $28, St. Louis $24.50, Kansas City $16, Denver $19. No. 1 alfalfa Kansas City $19, Omaha $15.50, Denver $13. No. 1 prairie Kansas City $11.50, Omaha $13, Chicago $19, St. Louis $16.50, Minneapolis $16.50.

Feed

Feed markets active with material improvement in eastern demand. Excellent offerings of bran tended to ease prices and in several markets quotations were $1 per ton lower. Middlings held fairly firm. Gluten feed prices were advanced $1 largely because of higher corn. Production of gluten feed very good for this time of the year and slightly exceeding demand.

U.S. Royal Cords

BALLOON ~ BALLOON-TYPE ~ HIGH PRESSURE
Built of Latex-treated Cords

TIRE building took a big step forward when the makers of United States Tires invented the Latex Process.

The added strength and wearing quality given by Latex-treated cords is something that the user of Royal Cords can tell you about from his own experience.

Royal Cords are the standard of value in cord tire equipment—even more certainly today than ever before.

And this holds good whether you are considering a High-Pressure Tire, a Balloon-Type Tire to fit your present wheels and rims, or a Balloon Tire for a 20 or 21 inch wheel.

"Peace Has Her Victories

No Less Than War"

Three hundred years ago the warlike tribes of the Iroquois Confederacy held sway over most of the territory that is now served with Niagara power. Where today the far-flung transmission lines speed tamed thunderbolts on missions of peaceful service, then grim war parties swarmed on their errands of destruction and death.

The Iroquois tribes today are but the fading memory of forgotten names. But every hour of the day and night Niagara power spreads further over the state to serve greater populations in more and better ways.

Truly the victories of peace are sometimes more lasting than those of war.
