Newspaper Men Home

Charles D. Haines and wife of Altamonte Springs, Florida, formerly of Troy, N. Y., have attracted national attention by their bestowal of a 700-acre estate in Florida, near Winter Park, with more than fifty buildings, a big auditorium and orange and citrus groves, as a home for newspapermen.

Mr. Haines claims that his gift to the newspaper men of the United States, where they can live in their old age, is a mere "nothing" of what anxious done for the enlighteners of the world. Mr. Haines is known as the New York congressman of the Fifty-third congress who fought so hard and won his fight to have the duty remain on collars. If he had not won, Troy, N. Y., would have been wiped off the map, as it is the collar city of the United States.

A Finish That Reveals or A Finish That Conceals

FURNITURE finish is properly applied to enrich and enhance the natural grain and intrinsic merit of the wood—to bring out its full beauty.

False finishes are frequently applied to inferior woods, giving them a short-time and superficial simulation of quality.

When you buy furniture, take care to distinguish between skin-deep and wood-deep!
