HOME CRAFT WEEK OCTOBER 6 to 11th

How Do You Select New Curtains?

First for Beauty, of Course

New curtains must be harmonious from without and with-14, a delight to the eye of the stranger who passes your home and he friend who visits it.

Second for Individuality

"By your curtains you are judged." Because everyone knows nt while your house may represent the taste of a professional hiteet, your curtains are your own selection-the only part of seen and judged by the public at large.

Third for Wear

Home Craft Week October 6 to 11

We are featuring really remarkable drapery merchandise.

In curtains, nets and made curtains, for example we are featuring the famous Quaker Craft Lace.

That is the line, you know, which for beauty and personality the standard for the whole world to copy.

As for durability, with the use of long staple threads, tied thread construction, and sunproof dyes where every color is introduced, Quaker Lace curtains and nets are as noted for service as for beauty.

Casement Lace

The last word in the English case ent treatment, for combined in this delightful curtaining is the soft case-ment cloth effect—plus the interest of design and the transparency of a vell-

Oxford Cross Net

"Makes any room a Solarium"

Have you a sun parlor that isn't atways sunny; or a north room that never is; or a living .com that needs a "bkt of brightening." Use Oxiord Cross Net. This net is a gossamer fabric in which a touch of sunshine has been caught and held. At $1.25 yard.

You Are Known By Your Windows

Ever notice how you instinctively size up a home-maker by the curtains at her windows?

Neat curtains proclaim the neat housewife; curtains of becoming novelty, showing the interest of well chosen design, suggest a home-maker of more than usual taste; the slouchy curtain certainly infers slovenly housekeeping.

If these curtains do not give you a truthful picture of the woman who hung them what a pity she continues to allow them to misrepresent her!

By the way, have you seen the new things in our Drapery Department recently?
