Rude Rural Rhymes

TIT FOR TAT

What'er we give of worst or best, the same comes back with interest. O let us teach to every kid that he must do as he'd be did; for every son of Ham or Shem will sure do us if we do them. The world's all set to bump us if we go starting rum-puns. On every tropic isle of balm there grow the nutty cocoa palms, where monkeys live in calms and gales and hang by their prehensile tails. Folks heave some darnicks at the browsers and then sit back upon their trousers and watch those simple simian mutts retaliate with cocoanuts. No work is left for human coots but picking up those hard-shelled fruits. But as for me, alas, lack, when I throw rocks I find myself back, when I throw rocks I find myself back. If I arise from off my couch and take with me a dark brown grouch, if I wear frowns upon my brow and try to talk back to my frau, if I dig up my rusty hatchet, if the more I say the worse I catch it. But if my looks are full of cheer and if I grin from ear to ear, my friends will slap me on the back, endorse my notes and lend me jack; and Hannah, when I homeward tread, will run to kiss my old bald head, and feed me cake and ginger bread.

Report cards were given out Wednesday noon. Parents who have not seen them should ask for the cards and examine them carefully. The cards have been marked as they were last year; grade cards being rated by the same teacher for all subjects, are marked in percentages. High school cards in order to balance the marks of one teacher who may mark very low with the marks of another who may mark much higher, have been marked with A, B, b, and c. In order to obtain these ratings the teachers' marks are divided in four groups as nearly equal as possible. The group containing the highest marks given the class, forms the next highest marks, the B group, etc.
Therefore an A following a subject on a pupil's card indicates that the pupil is in the lowest group in make this nation safe against attack by sea or land, could be built without burdensome taxation, kept up with slight expense and they would pay their way in peace, twice over, in the mail service, and in spying out forest fires.

Before this country faces a new war—it won't come, while they are all borrowing from us—the range of fliers and submarines will be as great as that of any floating vessel. The submarines will go as fast as any cruiser and the fliers, of course, twenty times as fast as any fighting ship afloat.

These suggestions are submitted to the president, who will decide what shall be done, and to the people of this country. They will pay the bills in money, which is not important, and in blood, which is important, if a fatal mistake be made in our plans of defense.

What you read here is printed in several hundred daily newspapers, including the Herald of Washington D. C., where those in office may see it, and in several thousand weekly newspapers, read in millions of country homes.

"Intelligent Americans who will write to their senators and congressmen about this most important question of national defense. Our classified ads will tell it."
