OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

CORRESPONDENCE WORK
GIVES MAN BEST PAPER
Teacher and Students Meet For
First Time After Several Months
Study Together.

When R. B. Wilson, beekeeping specialist from the state college of agriculture at Ithaca, selected the winners in a contest held at a recent meeting of the Finger Lakes Honey Producers' Association at Macedon, he was surprised to find that the only perfect paper of the lot had come from M. H. Pierson of Dale, and the next best from H. H. Utter of Shortsville. Professor Willson had known both of these men for some time thru the correspondence course in beekeeping that he handles from the college at Ithaca.

Their papers were identified by numbers, so that no one knew until the winning number was announced who had the best.

Thru their course from the college these beekeepers had obtained information and personal help from Prof. Willson that was useful in their business. By sending in regular written reports on study and work with their bees, they got his suggestions for improving their own practices.

The college gives ten other courses in as many agricultural subjects thru its extension service. They are free to residents of New York who can put them into practice; last winter more than six hundred farmers took advantage of them. Information about the courses offered can be obtained by writing to the State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

Around Our House

Letters asking about the use of salt and soda for cleaning silver are regular callers at the state college of agriculture. The home economics teachers at Ithaca always reassure anxious inquirers that salt and soda plus an aluminum pan and hot water is the best method of cleaning silver and one likely to do the least harm to silver, whether plated or solid. The process is really electro-chemical, changing the tarnish on the silver to a different substance and depositing it on the aluminum. An aluminum kettle may be used and well scoured afterward, or an aluminum pie plate may be used in the bottom of an enameled kettle. Use a teaspoon of salt and one of soda to each quart of boiled water. If an enamel kettle is used, place the aluminum plate in the bottom of the kettle, lay the silver on it so that some portion of each piece touches the aluminum, add the soda and salt solution and heat for a minute or two when the silver will be bright. Wash, rinse, and dry carefully. Do not use this method on grayed or oxidized silver, which is artificially tarnished, as this ornamental tarnish will also be removed.

DEMONSTRATION FARM FORESTRY CARS COMING

No farmer makes so much money that he doesn't want to know how to make more. Many agencies are willing to tell the farmer how to make money on and off the farm. Some are unreliable and the information they offer is often a snare to get the farmer's money instead of making money for him.

No progressive farmer will hesitate, however, when it is proved that the agencies representing themselves to him are reliable and have really an important message to deliver. There are agencies that do offer good advice and real assistance and their only motive is to help the farmer.

Because vast areas of forest land on farms are not producing the revenues they should in the states of New York and Pennsylvania, the Development Service of the Erie Railroad, which is interested in seeing these latent resources of the farm brot into full productivity together with the United States Forest Service; The New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse; the New York Conservation Commission; the Forestry Department of the New York State College of Agriculture at Ithaca; the Pennsylvania Department of Forests and Waters; the Pennsylvania State Agricultural College and the County Farm Bureaus whose interests in making farms more productive and profitable cannot be questioned, have all combined for the first time in the history of farm development work and have provided a traveling educational exposition of new interest and attention to all owners of farm land. It is absolutely free.

This exposition will consist of special demonstration cars that will be sent along the lines of the Erie Railroad in New York and Pennsylvania for the benefit and entertainment of farmers. The cars have been especially prepared with the latest means of visual instruction in reforesting idle lands, the growing, harvesting and marketing of farm wood products.

Motion pictures will be a feature of this big forestry show. There will also be shown transparencies, colored slides, graphic charts, while many forestry exhibits will be displayed. The exposition is intended to interest not only the head of the farm but all the family and the "hands." Your time will be well spent and it may reveal a new source of revenue for you.

What kind of trees are suited to the soil on your farm, where and how to obtain the trees, the best season for planting, the proper methods of putting the young trees into the ground, how to control insect pests and destructive tree diseases, what growth and yield is to be expected, the best methods of handling trees that are already on your land and how to get the mature timber to market at a profit, in fact all the latest information on forestry for the farmer will be supplied and explained by experts.

If you do not want to be behind the times in farming, if you do not want your neighbor to get ahead of you—he will surely be there—take advantage of this unusual opportunity to bring yourself up to date on how to raise and sell your forest products. This branch of crop production rapidly is looming large on the horizon of the farmer's opportunities of today and tomorrow.

The successful farmer has been the one who paid careful attention to scientific agriculture. A new factor in farming has arisen in farm forest land and the successful farmer now must also pay attention to the science of forestry.

The demonstration cars will be at Belmont from 2:00 p. m. to 10:00 p. m. o'clock on Nov. 19th; Cuba 10:00 a. m. to 12:30 p. m. Nov. 20th; Wellsville from 2:30 p. m. to 4:00 p. m., Nov. 20th; Alfred 7:00 p. m. to 10:00 p. m., Nov. 20th; Canaseraga from 7:00 p. m. to 10:00 p. m. Nov. 22nd. DO NOT MISS THIS EXHIBIT.

A permanent wound dressing for fruit trees may be made by mixing dry bordeaux with raw linseed oil. It is harmless and effective.

Judge successful men by their willingness to learn and adopt new practices. Most of the men taking the free correspondence course from the state college of agriculture at Ithaca are first of all good farmers.
