Sallie's Temptations
(Copyright 1924—By Gladys Baker)

CONCERNING SALLIE

Sallie is a modern, pretty young creature, with all the emotions and desires you yourself had when you were at that glorious age that lies somewhere between sixteen and twenty-five. Sallie is everywhere. The eyes of the world are upon the ultimate outcome of her moral code. Is she going to weaken her creed of right and wrong and stretch her philosophy to that of the girls who have a "good" time?

Your little girl is just where Sallie is. She must decide for herself. They are all Sallies at heart. Sallie's experience, put down truthfully from the pages of her life, may help your Sallies. Each chapter is complete in itself. Read it this week. You will enjoy it.—Editor.

In Which Sallie's Friends Fail Her.

"Your father needs you. Sallie, he is—shall I be perfectly frank with you?"

I nodded dumbly.

"Well, he is a very sick man," and noticing my worried look, he hurried to explain. "At first he wouldn't let us tell you because he didn't want you to fret about him while you were having a good time. But now he wants you and calls continually for 'his little girl.' Mr. Wright's voice was infinitely tender and kind."

Like a flash the thing he had just told me was picturing itself on my brain. Father lying there—ill—needing me and wanting me for I knew the depth of his love, and yet torn between his fine, unselfish spirit and his human longing for me at his side.

"Let's leave NOW. On the first train," I leaped to my feet. He glanced at his watch in the semigloom.

"There is a train in one hour and a half. We can make it. Don't hurry; you have enough time. That is, unless—hadn't that of it, but?"—he stammered—"perhaps you'd rather go alone."

"No, no," I was quick to reply. "Please don't leave me. I couldn't bear being alone." My voice quavered. "Tell me that I can count on YOU," I begged.

"You most assuredly can," he avowed. "It was just that I did not want to intrude."

Slipping around thru a side door, I went unnoticed to my room and sent a maid for Ellie, to whom I explained. In the meantime I threw a few necessary things in my bag.

"Cheer up, if you can, Sallie," suggested my hostess. "You'll come thru with flying colors. You always do. You were born like that. You are one of those few chosen ones on whom the Great Sculptor has smiled."

That was like Ellie. She was a butterfly, but her heart was as big as the great out-of-doors.

"And remember, Sport," she added, "we're all behind you. The entire gang."

Just at that moment the notes of "Chop Sticks," rendered by two of my exuberant friends, was wafted in thru the doorway in a wave of blatant sound. Some others, seeking self-expression had conceived the idea of turning on the Victrola at the same time and had probably chosen the first record at hand.

"Yes, we have no bee-na-nas" vied with the "dum dum dum dum dum" of the piano crowd.

My nerves were on edge. "Ellie," I exclaimed, "tell them for goodness sake to be quiet or I'll scream!"

She sped swiftly down the hall and I could hear her calling at the top of the stair:

"Turn off the jazz down there. Sallie's just had a message from her dad. He's ill. D'y'e hear?"

"Aw, wassa matter with the old man?" a harsh voice, replied. "Trying to ruin Sallie's good time. Tell her not to worry. I'll mix her a lovely highball if she'll come on down."

A door closed.

I could hear one of the girls trying to stop him, but it was too late. I threw myself on the bed, tears streaming down my face. Ellie, reader in your store—is a GOOD Ad.

HIGHLIGHTS ON STATE CROPS

From New York State Dept. Farms and Markets November 3, 1924.

After a very weak market Saturday, Concord grapes showed some improvement at beginning of this week, says the State Department of Farms & Markets. Western New York offerings in 12-quart baskets continued however to sell at from 70-75c each. Plums and prunes, although in limited supply, moved very slowly. Italian prunes in four-quart baskets brot from 25-30c; Damsons 25-35c. Barreled No. 1 pears sold in a steady market as follows: Anjou $5-6; Bartlett $3.50-9; Bonanza $8-10; Clairgeau $6-6.50; Kieffer $2.50-4; Seckel $9-10 and Sheldon $7-9. In the apple market "A" grade 2-1 1/2 inch Greenings sold at from $5-7.50 per barrel and McIntosh from $6.50-8.50. Most other varieties ranged from $4-6.

Celery Improves, Other Vegetables Dull.

Light receipts and a better demand resulted in the celery market averaging fully 25c per crate higher than at the close of last week. Western New York two-thirds crates brot from $2-2.50, large crates mostly $4. Sales of carrots ranged from 65-85c per 100 pound sack. Fancy, large onions met a fair sale but medium and ordinary received scant attention. Yellows brot from $1.50-1.75. 100 pound sack; reds from $1.75-1.90. Cabbage is in little demand, white domestic being neglected at $10 a ton while white Danish is selling at $14-15.

Veals Weak, Market Slow

With very little trading, top grade country-dressed calves are holding unchanged while undergrades are weak and irregular. Latest prices per pound: Choice 16-17; fair to good 12-17c; common and small 10-12c; under 50 pounds 7-9c.

Eggs Firm, Butter Steady

High grade eggs continue firm with the fanciest and freshest selected whites at $1.84 per dozen and nearby white, average extras 76-80c. Butter is higher. Ninety-two score sold at the first of the week at 40 1/2c per pound and higher score at 41-41 1/2c. Cheese continues dull but unchanged. Average run fresh and held flats closed at 18 1/2-19c a pound.

Hay Market Barely Steady

The hay market is slow and barely steady under moderate receipts. Latest prices are: U. S. Timothy: No. 1, $27; No. 2, $24-26; No. 3, $22-24.

Washington, D. C., for the week ending Nov. 3, 1924.

Cabbage generally lower New York Danish type $10-18 bus per ton in leading markets; $8-9 f. o. b., Rochester. Virginia and West Virginia York Imperial apples steady to firm at $4-4.75 per barrel. New York Baldwins $5-5.50 in New York. Illinois and Missouri Jonathans $7-7.50 in Chicago. Northwestern Staymans extra fancy mostly $2.50-3 per box.

Live Stock and Meats

Chicago hog prices ranged from 5-40c lower than a week ago, closing at $10.15 for the top and $8.25-9.75 for the bulk. Medium and light hogs 50c lower to $1.00 higher at $6.85-11.50; butcher cows and heifers 25c lower to 10c higher at $3.64-11.25; feeder steers 15-20c higher at $4.05-7.85; light and medium weight veal calves 25c to $1 lower at $8-9.75. Stocker and feeder shipments from 12 important markets during the week ending October 24, were: Cattle and calves 120,841; hogs 6,343; sheep 176,772. In eastern wholesale fresh meat markets good beef is $1 lower, medium beef $1 higher; veal 50c-$1 lower; lamb $1-3 lower; mutton steady to $2 higher. November 3 prices good grade meats: Beef $12-17; veal $10-17; lamb $19-24 mutton $10-16; light pork loins $18-20; heavy loins $12.50-17.

Dairy Products

Butter markets closed the week about steady. Production heavy for the season but decreasing. It continues to be difficult to move storage butter of which there is a large surplus. Quality of current make showing seasonal defects making top grades scarce. Exports light also of sentimental influence. Closing wholesale prices on 92 score butter today: New York 40 1/2c; Chicago 38 1/2c; Phila. 41 1/2c; Boston 39c.

Cheese markets generally quiet. Buyers inclined to hold immediate requirements. Some interest in held cheese offering prices are close to fresh goods. Production heavy for season. Wholesale prices of Wisconsin primary markets November 1: Single Daisies 18 1/2c; Double Daisies 18 1/2c; Longhorns 18 1/2c; Square Prints 20c.

Farm and Stock Market

Hay market dull, mild weather restricting demand, especially for lower grades. Receipts continue liberal. Timothy draggy with offerings more than equal to buyers needs. Alfalfa easier on reduced demand. Prairie practically steady on better grades, but low grades weak and moving with difficulty. Quoted November 3: No. 1 timothy Boston $26.50; New York $27; Pittsburgh $21; Cincinnati $19; Chicago $24; St. Louis $24.50; Kansas City $17; Memphis $23.50; Denver $19.
