Dry Law Enforcement

THE continued reports that the wets in congress are encouraged and proposed to make a concentrated to for modification of the Volstead law, make the licuor question a live issue.

Leaders of the Volstead law defenders are prepared for the battle of witz, but they need the support of public sentiment, which is liable to be turned away if the continued propaganda is spread about the lax enforcement of the dry laws.

Fecple in reaching a conclusion are very likely to be influenced by the stories of liquor smuggling and alleged prevalence of drinking, especially among young perple.

The art of enjoying an evening of relaxation with a gation we have been dealing with this problem only gears, whereas the legalized liquor_industry flour-lifted for the preceding 143 years of the nation's life. If we should grant that up to the present time prohibition has been a failure, to do away with now would not be a fair test of the principle.

A high standard for prohibition law enforcementhas been set from the very-first, due to the tendency of those opposed to prohibition to parade before the public eye every infraction of the law.

Law always have been broken and doubtless will be. No law is enforced one hundred per cent. Murder is punishable by death in some states, yet murders are committed.

In spite of the weakness, it is easy to demonstrate that prohibition has brot about pronounced public betterment and has proved of unquestioned economic value to the nation.

A Child's Pilgrimage

TIGHTEEN hundred lows and it school for the second of Library in Springfield, Ill. They were borne to the Illinois city in forty-three steel coaches with funds raised by the Shekandoah, Iowa, Kiwanis elub.

When the boys and girls boarded the train for the trip, they probably looked upon the occasion as a joy-nua "lark." But before they reached home, they had bearned a lesson that could not have been taught i

A visit to the tomb of Lincoln leaves an indelible impression upon the mind of a child that will eyer be a part of its store of memories.

It would be a fine contribution to national patriot-ism if every school child in America could visit the last resting place of the Emancipator and in the silence of tha temb pledge themselves to a life of devotion to the ideals that he did not live to see realized.

The life of Lincoln can not be stressted too much in the public schools. It teaches the lesson every child needs to learn—rugged personal honesty and a sacrinced spirit that puts the good of all above self.

There is some talk of a Dawes plan for China. It might work, because the way some of Mr. Dawes lan-guage appears in print, it resembles the Chinese very

Thrills

CO MANY of us are in a hurry and don't know where we are going. It is characteristic of the age-constantly seeking a new thrill, a new sensation.

A young man bought a new automobile, had it a few months and boasted that he had run it ten thou-

"Where have you been?" he was asked.
And he answered, "Oh, no place in particulararound."

Around expresses it—traveling around in circles: He was out in search of a thrill that he had nev-experienced before. And he had been no place. And many folks not so young are endeavoring to
