THE TONS OF COAL vou never have to buy

TF all your electricity were generated by steam, it would take several tons of coal a year, to provide current for your home alone.

But the interconnected power plants of the Buffalo, Niagara and Eastern Power System, generate electricity from the falling waters of

From hour to hour, this low-cost electricity is routed back and forthacross Western New York-from wherever it is least needed to wherever the demand is greatest.

Thus much of the expense of steam generation is avoided—thousands of tons of coal are saved—your electric service comes to you at the lowest possible price.

And so, your electricity is cheap. Compared with other household commodities, it is the biggest bargain you buy. Use it freely.
