OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

START NINTH YEAR OF CORRESPONDENCE STUDY

Twenty-six Subjects Offered This Year Are Available to Residents of New York State Only.

The farm study courses at the state college of agriculture at Cornell University are being given for the ninth year. Twenty-six courses are offered this year and farmers are asked to write to the farm study office at Ithaca and make inquiries.

The courses have become increasingly popular in the eight years in which they have been given and many students have written to the office to tell how these courses have helped them on their farms. Scientists have made experiments in most phases of agriculture and their results, printed, are available to the farmer who wishes to run his farm to best advantage, yet who cannot afford the time to attend college. Without leaving home the farmer may study almost any branch of farming and may put what he learns into practice on his own farm.

The courses are available to residents of New York State only. It is advised that prospective students have a grammar school education or its equivalent. Students may enroll at any time and advancement in each course is as fast as the student desires. A certificate is given at the completion of each course. No tuition or fees are charged; the student's only expenses are for postage and textbooks. Usually not more than one textbook is necessary for each course tho others may be recommended.

Persons interested in taking the courses should write to the farm study office, New York State College of Agriculture, Ithaca, N. Y.

FALL PIGS NEED CAREFUL FEEDING

Proper Handling is Also Necessary for Success—Forage Crop Suggested for Run to Give Young Ones Start.

The farmer who wants to make a success of his fall pigs must pay careful attention to proper feedings and handlings, says the New York state college of agriculture. Corn is a fvaorite high energy feed.

It is suggested that pigs be allowed to run on a forage crop after weaning to give them a better start toward the long winter months. During the growing and fattening periods, the concentrates fed should be of high energy value with some protein supplement, or a combination of protein supplements. Altho corn is probably best, ground barley or ground rye may be substituted for corn. In using these feeds, farmers should remember that they are high in energy but low in protein, and that they must be balanced with high protein foods in order to get the best results. Skim milk or buttermilk, both of which are high in protein and mineral matter, are good to balance grains. About two and one-half to three pounds of milk should be fed with one pound of corn for 50-pound pigs. As the animals grow the amount of milk may be correspondingly decreased.

Such feeds as tankage, fish meal, alfalfa meal, and oil meal should be fed where skim milk or buttermilk is not available. In the Middle West a combination of 50 per cent. fish meal, 25 per cent. alfalfa meal, and 25 per cent. oil meal has been used with corn or other feeds to start the pigs. About 15 to 20 per cent. of the protein supplement should be fed in the beginning, and gradually decreased until at the finishing period only about five per cent. is fed.

AGAIN NEW YORK PULLING RECORD IS BROKEN

Prince and Dan, a pair of grey Percherons, owned and driven by Henry Putt of Allegany, established a new state pulling record for teams weighing more than 3,000 pounds at the Little Valley fair by dragging the dynamometer, set at 3,200 pounds, the required distance of twenty-seven and one-half feet. they broke the triple tie at 3,050 pounds for the New York State record. The teams tying were owned by John Adrian of Williamsville, John Tallen of Buffalo, and Henry Putt of Allegany. This pull on the draw bar is equivalent to starting a load of 41,540 pounds on granite block pavement. The team weighed 3,550 pounds and made the record the eighth time they were hitched to the machine.

PREVENT LOSSES FROM STORAGE ROT

Growers Lose More Than Three Million Bushels of Potatoes a Year From Fusarium.

Growers in this country lose more than three million bushels of potatoes a year from a common storage trouble known as Fusarium rot, according to Charles Chupp, of the New York State College of Agriculture.

In bulletin 82 of the United States department of agriculture, this disease is discussed and the authors point out that two-thirds of the Fusarium infection follows injuries received by rough handling of tubers. Fusarium may infect potatoes at a low temperature but rarely infects a potato, the skin of which has not already been injured, nor does it penetrate a cut or bruised surface if the tuber has been in a warm temperature so that a corky layer has formed over the injury.

Cork formation over a cut surface is hastened by the presence of moisture and relatively high temperatures. If potatoes are injured while they are being dug and are then placed in storage with a temperature as low as 50 degrees F., the wounds will not heal over, and since Fusarium can grow at a temperature as low as 36 degrees it has every chance to infect them and to cause decay.

To prevent this disease every precaution should be taken to avoid bruising, the storage should be as dry as possible without causing undue shrinking and the temperature of the storage should be kept less than 40 degrees F. When potatoes are to be stored at low temperature they should be stacked in crates under canvas or shed for a few days until all wounds are well corked over.

Around Our House

The Up-to-date Clothes Closet

In making the house up-to-date and convenient, the clothes closet deserves its share of attention. The closet approved today is well-lighted, provides hangers for clothing, storage space for hats and shoes, and is so arranged that every garment can easily be reached. The housewife no longer has to search in far corners for a lost shoe or bring all the contents of the closet to the floor when she takes out a dress.

Clothes rods, which may be made of wood, hold the hangers and save space. Some large closets may hold two of these. For small crowded closets a sliding rod is likely to be more satisfactory since it may easily be pulled out when the housewife wishes to hang or remove garments. Such racks should be rustproof and strong enough to hold the weight of several garments.

When a closet is large enough, a set of built-in drawers or sliding trays is useful. A chest of drawers will serve the same purpose. Shelves, racks or shoe bags keep shoes in good condition and add to the order and convenience of the closet. The shelves may be just a little wider than the shoe length—about 14 inches wide for men's shoes and about ten for women's. The simplest type of rack is of metal with an edge to catch the heel. This type is inexpensive.

For sheives and walls enamel paint makes a smooth sanitary finish.

If you want tulips, hyacinths, narcissi, snowdrops, and crocusses in your garden next spring, they should be planted during September, October and early November.

What Dr. Caldwell Learned in 47 Years Practice

W. B. Caldwell M.D.

AT AGE 83

Dr. Caldwell watched the results of constipation for 47 years, and believed that no matter how careful people are of their health, diet and exercise, constipation will occur from time to time regardless of how much one tries to avoid it. Of next importance, then, is how to treat it when it comes. Dr. Caldwell always was in favor of getting as close to nature as possible, hence his remedy for constipation, known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, is a mild vegetable compound. It can not harm the most delicate system and is not a habit forming preparation. Syrup Pepsin is pleasant-tasting and youngsters love it. It does not gripe. Thousands of mothers have written us to that effect.

Dr. Caldwell did not approve of drastic physics and purges. He did not believe they were good for human beings to put into their system. In a practice of 47 years he never saw any reason for their use when a medicine like Syrup Pepsin will empty the bowels just as promptly, more cleanly and gently, without griping and harm to the system.

Keep free from constipation! It robs your strength, hardens your arteries and brings on premature old age. Do not let a day go by without a bowel movement. Do not sit and hope, but go to a druggist and get one of the generous bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. Take the proper dose that night and by morning you will feel like a different person. Use Syrup Pepsin for yourself and members of the family in constipation, biliousness, sour and crampy stomach, bad breath, no appetite, headaches, and to break up fevers and colds. Always have a bottle in the house, and observe these three rules of health: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, the bowels open.

We would be glad to have you prove at our expense how much Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin can mean to you and yours. Just write "Syrup Pepsin," Monticello, Illinois, and we will send you prepaid a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE.

§ 1-a. The legislature may, by general law, provide a manner in which, and the time and place at which, qualified voters who may, on the occurrence of any general election, be unavoidably absent from the state or county of their residence because they are inmates of a soldiers' and sailors' home or of a United States Veterans' Bureau Hospital, or because their duties, occupation or business require them to be elsewhere within the United States, may vote, and for the return and canvass of their votes in the election district in which they respectively reside.

AMENDMENT NUMBER TWO

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY

PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO SECTION TWENTY-SIX OF ARTICLE THREE OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE AMENDMENT OR MODIFICATION OF A PLAN OF GOVERNMENT ADOPTED BY A COUNTY

Section 1. Resolved, That section twenty-six of article three of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 26 There shall be in each county, except in a county wholly included in a city, a board of supervisors, to be composed of such members and elected in such manner and for such period as is or may be provided by law. The legislature may provide by law for forms of government for the counties of Westchester and Nassau, or either, subject to adoption and approval by the electors of any such county at a general election in an odd-numbered year. Any such form of government may include the transfer to the county or to county officers of any functions now exercised by towns or town officers. [The law providing for such form of government shall also prescribe the manner in which the county affected may subsequently abandon it, and revert to its former form of government. The adoption of such form of government by the county shall not preclude the legislature from amending or modifying such plan.] After the adoption of such form of government by the county, no law which abolishes or creates an elective office or changes the voting or veto power of or the method of removing an elective officer, changes the term of office or reduces the salary of an elective officer during his term of office, abolishes, transfers or curtails any power of an elective officer, changes the form or composition of a legislative body, or provides a new charter for such county, shall become effective without adoption and approval by the electors of such county. After any such bill has been passed by both branches of the legislature, the house in which it originated shall immediately transmit a certified copy thereof to the clerk of the board of supervisors or other governing elective body of such county, and within fifteen days thereafter such clerk shall return such bill to the clerk of the house from which it was sent, or if the session of the legislature at which such bill was passed has terminated, to the governor, with the clerk's certificate thereon, stating whether the county has or has not accepted the same. The legislature shall provide for a public notice and opportunity for a public hearing concerning any such bill before the board of supervisors or other governing elective body of the county before action thereon, and the board of supervisors or other governing elective body shall act for the county as to such bill, provided that if under such form of government there shall be an executive head of the county, the concurrence of such executive head shall also be required for the acceptance of such bill by the county. Whenever any such bill is accepted as herein provided, it shall be subject as are other bills, to the action of the governor. No such bill shall take effect until at least sixty days after the approval by the governor, or its final adoption by the legislature notwithstanding the disapproval of the governor; nor unless and until adopted and approved by the electors of the county, if within said sixty days there shall be filed with the county clerk of the county a petition protesting against such bill executed by electors of the county in number equal to at least five per centum of the total number of votes cast in the county for governor at the last gubernatorial election. Whenever during the session at which it was passed, any such bill is returned without the acceptance of the county, or within such fifteen days is not returned, it may nevertheless again be passed by both branches of the legislature and it shall then be subject as are other bills, to the action of the governor, but shall not take effect unless and until adopted and approved by the electors of the county. In every such law which has been accepted by the county to which it relates, the title shall be followed by the words "accepted by the county." In every such law which is passed without such acceptance, by the words "passed without the acceptance of the county." If under such form of government the board of supervisors be abolished, the powers and duties of the board of supervisors, as prescribed by the constitution, or by statute if not provided for by such form of government, shall devolve upon the governing elective body in such county. In a city which includes an entire county, or two or more entire counties, the powers and duties of a board of supervisors may be devolved upon the municipal assembly, common council, board of aldermen or other legislative body of the city.

AMENDMENT NUMBER THREE

Laws shall be made to provide for the enforcement of this section.

AMENDMENT NUMBER FOUR

CONCURRENT RESOLUTION OF THE SENATE AND ASSEMBLY

PROPOSING AN AMENDMENT TO *SECTION ONE-A OF ARTICLE TWO OF THE CONSTITUTION, IN RELATION TO THE POWERS OF JUSTICES OF THE PEACE IN CRIMINAL MATTERS

Section 1. Resolved, That section seventeen of article six of the constitution be amended to read as follows:

§ 17. The electors of the several towns shall, at their annual town meetings, or at such other time and in such manner as the legislature may direct, elect justices of the peace, whose term of office shall be four years. In case of an election to fill a vacancy occurring before the expiration of a full term, they shall hold for the remainder of the unexpired term. Their number, classification and duties shall be regulated by law. Justices of the peace, justices of the municipal court of the city of New York, and judges or justices of inferior courts not of record, and their clerks, may be removed for cause, after due notice and an opportunity of being heard, by such courts as are or may be prescribed by law. All other judicial officers in cities, whose election or appointment is not otherwise provided for in this article, including all judicial officers holding courts of special sessions, magistrates' courts, or other inferior local courts of criminal jurisdiction in the city of New York, shall be chosen by the electors of such cities, or appointed by some local authorities thereof as may be prescribed by law. The boards of supervisors, or other officials exercising power now vested in such boards, may fix the compensation to be paid or allowed to justices of the peace for their services in criminal matters: but the powers or duties in criminal matters now exercised by justices of the peace may be transferred by law to inferior local courts of criminal jurisdiction, the territorial jurisdiction of which outside of cities may be defined by the respective boards of supervisors.

AMENDMENT NUMBER FIVE

§ 3. In addition to the above limited power to contract debts, the state may contract debts to repel invasion, suppress insurrection, or defend the state in war, or to suppress forest fires; but the money arising from the contracting of such debts shall be applied to the purpose for which it was raised, or to repay such debts, and to no other purpose whatever.

Rude Rural Rhymes

Quoting Scripture

Bruce Barton wrote a tome of prose about the "Book Nobody Knows," and much of truth his title shows. Two fellows bet each other whether one knew the Lord's Prayer altogether. Five dollars each they made the stake and thus the first one made his break. "Now I lay me down to sleep." "All right you get the cash to keep," the other said. "I swan you knew it. I would have sworn you couldn't do it." Enroute to church one Sabbath day I saw Bill Jones a-mowing hay. Says I, "You're shocking all this region. I thought that you had more religion." Says Bill, "You have no call to fault me, I've seen some scripture that upholt me. Somewhere within the Book we read, 'The better the day, the better the deed.'" If we quote Scripture for our acts, we should be certain of the facts. Altho the Book I have discussed in many homes is gathering dust, I hope the Golden Rule is still alive for you and me and Bill. We must live it, we must be it, but we're mighty slow to see it.—BOB ADAMS.

Many a successful farmer got his start at the winter short courses at the state college.
