EATING FOR GOOL HEALTH

THE growing girl and young woman demand more body • fuel and building material than does the mature woman. That fuel and building material must come from the daily food which must be selected with care and common sense so as to include all the elements the healthy body needs.

Your breakfast should include fresh fruit or fruit juice, a cereal with milk or cream, broiled bacon, eggs, two or three times a week, toast, chocolate, coffee or tea if you wish. Always include a glass of milk.

Your luncheon should include a salad made from fresh vegetables or fruit; a sandwich and a glass of milk. Your dinner should include meat or fish; at least two green vegetables, cooked or fresh, preferably of the leafy variety; a salad and coffee, tea or chocolate. Make your dessert of fruit or ice cream, and top off the meal with a glass of milk.

Macaroni or spaghetti served with cheese and tomato sauce may be substituted for meat or fish two or three times each week. Be sure to eat plenty of vegetables and fruit and to drink at least a quart of milk every day. Don't starve yourself until you have weakened your body in an attempt to attain a "boyish form." It is better for your health, particularly in the adolescent years, to be a little overweight rather than thin.
