A Rasp, Maybe

Sweet Young Thing: "What's good for mothers' fallen arches?"
Doctor: "Rubber heels."
S. Y. T.: "What shall I rub 'em with?"

Roll Roofing

In the light weights is now low enough in price so that you can afford to use it for lining on buildings that you wish to give extra protection against cold and moisture.

We have just unloaded a car of this material bought at prices considerably below any that seemed possible even six months ago. We believe roofing prices are fully deflated to 1933 levels.

In any required quantity one roll or one hundred, we are prepared to name lowest prices and meet or beat any competition.

Also lower prices prevail in plastic roof cements; and all kinds of pure asphalt coatings. Our stock of these items is also complete.

Aluminum Tea Kettles

They heat quickly, are light to handle and if they happen to go dry there is no solder to fall away and cause leaks.

Large sizes priced as low as 85 cents, and $1.75 buys a really good one.

Impervo

A Benjamin Moore preparation to mix into paint. Makes it tougher, adds to covering capacity and guarantees against cracking or peeling even when applied over gum, sap or a surface containing moisture.

It will add many years to the usefulness and good looks of your paint job.

Syrup Cans

Look to the quality of can you buy this season; it takes more than a square tin box and a screw top to make a container that will secure contents against a fungus growth in the neck of the can, prevent loss of flavor and going sour.

Be sure the cans you buy have metal sealers under the cork packing, they cost slightly more and well worth the difference.

Desk Sergeant: "Eliza, you've been brought in for intoxication."
Eliza: "That's fine, I'm ready to start right now."

Writes... The Other Man

Ruby M. Ayers, one of the most popular and most prolific of the modern fiction writers, is the author of the new serial, "The Other Man," which is to be published in this newspaper. . . . Does love change? . . . Pauline said no . . . Barbara said yes . . . Dennis . . . well, he didn't know. . . . What do you think? One answer makes for mighty interesting reading. . . . It may be found in "The Other Man."

Five dollars buys enough food for a family of five for a week, says the New York State college of home economics at Cornell University. The prices are based on those at retail stores in Ithaca. Menus for a week's meals, with recipes, are mailed to readers of this paper, from the college, on request to the college at Ithaca.

WHAT A GIRL IN HER TEENS SHOULD DO FOR GOOD HEALTH

By AMELIA H. GRANT, M.A., R.N.
Director, Bureau of Nursing
New York City department of Health

EATING FOR GOOD HEALTH

THE growing girl and young woman demand more body fuel and building material than does the mature woman. That fuel and building material must come from the daily food which must be selected with care and common sense so as to include all the elements the healthy body needs.

Your breakfast should include fresh fruit or fruit juice, a cereal with milk or cream, broiled bacon, eggs, two or three times a week, toast, chocolate, coffee or tea if you wish. Always include a glass of milk.

Your luncheon should include a salad made from fresh vegetables or fruit; a sandwich and a glass of milk.

Your dinner should include meat or fish; at least two green vegetables, cooked or fresh, preferably of the leafy variety; a salad and coffee, tea or chocolate. Make your dessert of fruit or ice cream, and top off the meal with a glass of milk.

Macaroni or spaghetti served with cheese and tomato sauce may be substituted for meat or fish two or three times each week. Be sure to eat plenty of vegetables and fruit and to drink at least a quart of milk every day. Don't starve yourself until you have weakened your body in an attempt to attain a "boyish form." It is better for your health, particularly in the adolescent years, to be a little overweight rather than thin.
