BAKERS' STORE NEWS

Published by Baker Bros. Hardware, Andover, N. Y.

Women are cooks and men are chefs and their victims are dyspeptics.

A Celebration

This year the Benj. Moore Co. pauses to survey the achievements of Fifty Years in the Paint Business.

With them it is a half century of ceaseless endeavor to bring a necessary product to the highest standard of practical usefulness.

We are not so much concerned with what the paint problems were 50 years ago, but every home maker of today is interested in knowing positively how best to take advantage of this half century of paint evolution and apply it to their own advantage.

We all use paint, varnish, lacquer and enamels—we enjoy their beauty of color and the feeling of cleanliness they impart to those things that are the fabric of our every day life. There is an insidious attraction about a brush and a can of color that once you get to working at it, it is difficult to resist.

In this year 1933 the Moore people are able to offer a complete line of Paint Products that excel in quality and utility. Their paints flow out from the brush so easily—they cover so completely, dry so quickly and produce a covering of such elasticity and hardness that the ordinary wear is prolonged beyond reasonable expectation.

If you wish to paint a house, inside or out, refinish furniture, protect metal surfaces or touch up a motor car or piece of machinery Moore's have exactly the product best suited to your needs and offered at prices so attractive that there is no argument.

We are helping people to get a better job of painting every day and saving them trouble and expense. Come in and let us help you.

Shirt Tails

What are they good for? Roy Chapman Andrews, who has done so much to increase our knowledge of natural history tells of arriving at a college where he was to fill a lecture engagement and finding when he came to don his glad rags he had forgotten to put in his white full-dress tie. Being a man-of-resources and having a pair of scissors he was able to use a piece of the flap of his shirt to supply the neck piece and a very embarrassing situation was avoided.

But, supposing he had not had the Scissors?

One real test of a Hardware Store's value to a community is its ability to satisfy its needs and desires in the matter of cutlery and most particularly in that important item of Scissors and Shears.

Now we have been selling hardware for a long time and rather pride ourselves in our knowledge of this craft. We are well satisfied that our stock of Scissors and Shears contains just the size, style, finish and quality that will meet your approval.

When you travel, be sure your case carries Scissors, and that the home supply is adequate. A pair of Shears that work smoothly and cut well may now be bought from 20 cents up.

It will please us to show you anything in cutlery, the incident of purchase remains entirely a matter of your own inclination.

Sherwood Eddy

That keen observer of international affairs, gives this as his opinion: "Europe still holds many of the trump cards that lead the way to international peace."

We would venture the assertion that during recent weeks Europe has played most of her trumps and if our diplomats had the courage to make a few squeeze plays, they might conclude that it is about time to either squawk or jump thru the hoop.
