Keep Your Powder Dry

Aunt Martha says face powder may catch a man, but it's baking powder that keeps him.

Better Light

Not more light but a more intelligent use of that you already have; the reason so many people, particularly children in school are forced into wearing eye glasses is because they are not taught to use light correctly.

The makers of General Electric Mazda Lamps are putting on a campaign of education to show how to use your light and really see without eye strain and at the same time place before you the opportunity of joining in a contest whereby you may win a valuable prize.

There is no entrance charge, you only purchase a carton or assortment of six Mazda Lamps that total 340 watts, with them you will receive a correct reading chart contest blank and sheet of rules.

The prizes, 500 in number, run all the way from Roller Skates, Radios and Bicycles to your choice of a Ford, Essex, Plymouth or Chevrolet automobile.

This contest is limited in area to upper New York States and five counties in Pennsylvania, is particularly adapted to school children, but anyone except electricians and lamp dealers may enter.

Because of the restricted area chances of winning are much increased and as no special skill is required all regardless of age or education, stand equal.

You will get a real kick out of this contest besides valuable instructions in the correct use of light. Get your outfit and start at once.

Contest is open now and closes at midnight, Nov. 30th, 1933.

Looking Old

Half the cars on the road are not nearly so old as they appear, they coat over with road film, hide the finish, the owners lose the pride of ownership and the car looks like a piece of junk.

The best and most enduring treatment to bring out the latent finish is a full dose of Simoniz, that is a two coat idea one off and one on. First clean then polish—plenty of elbow grease and perspiration, but well worth the effort.
