Elm Valley

(Mrs. Charley Cole, Reporter)
Jan. 10.—The Elm Valley Community Club will meet with Mrs. Lucha Burdick on Wednesday of next week, Jan. 17th, for dinner. Please come prepared to help in the quilt. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Independence

(Mrs. Floyd Clark, Reporter)
Jan. 8.—Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Clarke and Hilda and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Clarke were in Little Genesee Saturday, to see W. W. Clarke. Wayne Crandall returned to Ithaca Sunday to resume his school work.

Agrigraphs

Uncle Ab says that big farms may be efficient, but they are not as efficient as a "big" farmer. Milk is the most important source of income on 62 dairy farms in the Wharton Valley section of Otsego county.

Voorhees Hill

(Mrs. Raymond Church, Reporter)
Jan. 10.—Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Church and daughter, Verma Jean, were in Hornell on business Friday. The Misses Koneta and Pauline Perkins and Thelma Lewis attended a conference for rural teachers on Hanover Hill, Friday afternoon.

Whitesville

(Mrs. Ella Millspaugh, Reporter)
Potatoes have been 65 cents per bushel the past few days. Lee Robbins and Churchill Cobb of Canisteo were here on business Friday.

SUPREME COURT: COUNTY OF ALLEGANY: LILLIAN M. IVES, Plaintiff vs. Defendants.

Nora Scott, Charles Scott, Norman Joyce, Ada Long, Evans Sterling and Eppire Gas & Fuel Co., Ltd., Defendants.
By virtue of an interlocutory judgment of sale in partition granted by this Court in the above entitled action and entered on the 28th day of October, 1933, in the Office of the Clerk of the County of Allegany, the undersigned Francis B. O'Connor, a referee duly appointed in this action for such purpose, will sell at public auction on the 28th day of January, 1934, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon of that day at the Law Office of Crayton L. Earley, in the Village of Andover, Allegany County, N. Y.:

John Mitchell
John Mitchell, 80 years of age, a prosperous farmer, died at his home in Andover Monday night. He is survived by his wife and four sons. Funeral services were held in the Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon, Rev. H. D. Bacon officiating.

Town Board of Health

The Town Board organized a new board of health for Andover, at its meeting last Tuesday. Dr. C. W. O'Donnell was appointed health officer, and E. A. Richardson, citizen, member of the board.

Over 1,000 cars of ice have been already harvested from the Andover ponds. Word comes from Alfred of the sudden death of Jarvis Kenyon of that place, Tuesday. Mr. Kenyon had lived nearly his entire life in Alfred and was well known in Andover.

S. M. Austin, a former resident of Andover, died at his home in Alfred Sunday night. Deceased was 42 years of age and a member of the Andover Methodist church.

John Porter had a close call

Saturday when he was struck and knocked down by a caboose, which was supposed to be standing still at the ponds, but in the switching of the ice train another car hit the caboose. Fortunately he fell clear of the tracks and is not seriously injured.

Among the fraternal officers, we note

C. E. Hann as Noble Grand in the Odd Fellows; Mrs. N. B. Proper as Worthy Matron in the Eastern Star and Mrs. H. C. Coleman as president of the Relief Corps.

F. S. Clark was a business visitor in Wellsville, Saturday. A. L. Jones is in Friendship this week on business.

Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Fowler have for a guest Miss Mae Moshier of Deposit. Archie Kemp and George Bennett were Angeline visitors from Saturday until Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Green of Hornellville are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Williams. Mr. and Mrs. A. A. Porter, who have been visiting Andover relatives for the past three weeks, returned to their home in Pittsburgh, Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Moshier returned from a two weeks' visit with their sons in Chicago, Monday. Save fuel, time and effort by cooking the whole meal in the oven when it must be heated for one dish of the meal anyway.

Ohio has swallowed a whale!

Or at least that's the story of the whale's owner here who shipped his 55 ton whale on a 65 foot truck recently, bound for New York. He says that not only is a whale worth $25,000, but that he loves it and its loss affected him deeply. He has appealed to Lincoln Highway police to help him locate the whale, the truck and the driver. The whale, stuffed, was to be put on exhibition here in New York.

There's a new racket in town.

The so-called cut price clothing shops of the lower east side have posted "snipers" on Fifth Avenue. When a shopper stops to look in a Fifth Avenue window, the sniper usually a plainly dressed woman stops to look too. "My, but prices are high," she says to the shopper. "Why prices are much lower on Division Street. Why are there coats just like that one at such and such a store at half the price?" It's a refinement of the old technique of grabbing a prospect and dragging him bodily into a store—a "hot" prospect, obviously interested in the merchandise on display.

The Chairman of the Board of an immense corporation has a separate office in the tower of a building in the Grand Central zone. No desks there. Just divans, club chairs, fireplace and kitchen. Executives from Wall Street and other districts drop in for a drink after "the market" has closed. Advance plans and the low-down on the financial district are swapped over the glasses.

RAMBLING ROUND NEW YORK

with HUGH KENNY
A four-page newspaper is published in New York with a vocabulary of only 900 words. It is published by the Language Research Committee affiliated with the New York University and is used to aid foreign-born adults in learning English and adjusting themselves to the American environment. The average American-born adult has a vocabulary of 25,000 words, yet the 900 word newspaper is very readable, quite complete.

On 39th Street, just off Broadway is a man sitting on the top of a motor truck. His legs reach all the way to the ground. He's the sandwich man who walks on stilts and occasionally holds conversations with workers in second story windows.

In response to my telephoned inquiry for an out-of-town guest came this prompt answer from Radio City's Music Hall, "For equipment for the hard of hearing, speak to one of the ushers, deposit $2. The usher will show you to a seat in the 12th row in the orchestra which is wired for the purpose, and connect the instrument. Return the instrument on leaving the theater and your deposit will be returned in full."
