THE YELLOW SHADOW

Home Talent Production Finely Staged by Local School Pupils Under Direction of Miss Clifford.

Andover people had been waiting with quite a degree of expectancy the production of the play, "The Yellow Shadow," which was put on Saturday evening at the High School Auditorium by the following cast:

Neil Travis, housekeeper, Ruth Slocum; Gilbert Wright, attorney, Conrad Church; Mildred Marvin, heiress, Mary Monica Lynch; Alice Perkins, Mildred's chum, Margaret Powers; Hazel Wayne, Mildred's cousin, Ethel Haynes; Jed. Travis, Willard DeRemer; Herbert Marvin, from Singapore, Richard Appier; Sheriff Macklin, "who had taken a detestable course," Max Baker; J. Steel, coroner, Evelyn Moland; Wong Song, unknown, Bruce McGill.

Each and every one of the cast took their lines promptly and displayed little of the amateur, deserve a compliment. The play, advertised as a mystery drama, was quite that, the last act bringing a surprise to most of the audience.

The A. H. S. orchestra played several numbers preceding the curtain and between acts, which were thoroughly enjoyed.

Miss Annette P. Clifford, English teacher and Miss Mary Jo Russ director of music in Andover High School are deserving of hearty congratulations on the efficiency of their pupils in both dramatic and orchestral work.

The proceeds of the evening are to be used as a benefit for the Athletic Association. The attendance was very good and the News predicts the same response for future productions under the skillful direction of Miss Clifford.

The program which Director Bloss is arranging will be well balanced, with overtures, instrumental and vocal solo numbers and marches.

The date has not been definitely set for the concert, but the contemplated date will be some time in the first week in February.

Bits of Blarney

Lawn Mower Drops Dead says a headline. Wonder if the machine had heart failure! Most Allegany county folks who have nice lawns would be glad to have to bring out a Lawn Mower, so anxious are they to see some sunshine, warmer days and signs of spring.

One thing about the depression was that a fellow could get a hair cut on a Saturday afternoon and not get balled out by his favorite barber.

"Forewarned is forearmed" they used to say but perhaps that does not apply in this case. The Cuba Patriot's Clarksville correspondent has this to say: "Herbert Snyder has purchased an auto and now Herbert's expenses begin."

Can't understand it! A big oil truck was crowded off the road near Fillmore a few days ago and it took several hours work to get it back onto the highway. No average motorist did the crowding; most small car drivers always give those big heavy trucks all the room they take. For some drivers of such big trucks most drivers have little sympathy when they get into trouble.

J. G. Mortimer, Cuba Patriot's correspondent at Clarksville, "said a mouthful" of sense when he wrote last week that Congress ought to do away with the costly electoral col-
