Reorganize Cyclone Hose Co. After a lapse of several years the old Cyclone Hose Company was reorganized Saturday night with the following new officers in charge: Earl Snow, President. Berney Wilson, Vice President. Harold Bloss, Secretary. R. E. Clark, Treasurer.

The reorganization of our Cyclone Hose Company came just in the nick of time, as Tuesday evening, a fire broke out in the large two story dwelling of Arthur Robbins and the property saved from total destruction by the valiant work of the new hose company. A chimney burned out in the early morning hours and it is generally thought that fire smoldered from that until about 9 p. m., when the blaze was discovered. The property is badly damaged.

Extreme cold weather has been with us since Sunday. The mercury hit 15 and 20 below here Sunday night and zero all day Monday with high winds and below zero Monday night and eight above Tuesday.

Mrs. Kenneth Shay has been ill for several days, but is improving.

Carl Densmore has been ill the past week with quinsy.

The Philathea Class will meet with Mrs. G. M. Lewis Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Aden Horton are the parents of a 8½ pound son, Roger Baker, born to them Jan. 19, at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Baker.

Barbara, the ten year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Bloss broke both bones of her right arm last Friday afternoon while coasting down Hill Street on roller skates. Dr. L. G. Probasco reduced the fracture and took her to Wellsville for x-ray examination.

Mrs. J. Arthur Crittenden visited relatives in Wellsville several days last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Rigby and sister Miss Geortrude, attended church services at Shongo last Sunday.

The American Legion community supper at Legion Hall Friday evening was well patronized.

STOP GETTING UP NIGHTS

Lax the Bladder With Juniper Oil, Buchu, Etc.

Drive out the impurities and excess acids that cause irritation, burning and frequent desire. Juniper oil is pleasant to take in the form of BUKETS, the bladder laxative, also containing Buchu leaves, etc. Works on the bladder similar to castor oil on the bowels. Get a 25c box from any drug store. After four days if not relieved of "getting up nights" go back and get your money. If you are bothered with backache or leg pains caused from bladder disorders you are bound to feel better after this cleansing and you get your regular sleep.

Illiteracy in the United States has been reduced to a point where fewer than five persons out of every 100 more than ten years of age are now unable to read and write.

TELL ME AN INDIAN STORY

Dr. E. A. Bates, Cornell (Copyright 1933)

Hunting Wolves

The purple haze drifted at eventide over the valley where lived the Indian people. When the sun gave his last smile before resting beyond the western hill, the cold north wind blew through the oak tree.

The farmers were busy gathering the corn, beans, and squashes before little "white whiskers" would coat them with his silvery paint; the women began to thump of heavier clothing for the children for the cold winter nights.

And each evening through the purple haze came the long shrill call of the wolves in the thickets beyond the village, and the hunters knew the hunting season was about at hand.

So the hunters took their wooden hoes with sharp stone ends and wandered down the trail to the runways of the wolves. They dug a deep, long hole and covered it with brush and fallen leaves; and then they hid behind the thick high bushes and waited for the wolves to come.

The silvery moon came up over the eastern hill and its beams glistened as the dew began to fall on the grasses on either side of the runway of the wolves.

A creeping noise was heard and the concealed hunters were all alert. Soon an old gray wolf and a young one by its side, came into view.

Cautiously the two animals came down the path and when their front paws touched the boughs, they began to slide. Into the pit fell both the wolves. In an instant the hunters leaped from their hiding place and with quick blows on the head of the older wolf soon killed it. But the younger one was so playful that the hunters bound its legs with strong elm bark and carried it alive back to the village, for a pet.

Purity Of New York State Foods Assured By Vigilant Inspection

New York State Food Products May Be Purchased With Confidence and Pride

By CHARLES H. BALDWIN
Commissioner, Department of Agriculture and Markets
Albany, New York

THE purity and wholesomeness of New York State milk, dairy products and other foods is assured to consumers by the State Department of Agriculture and Markets, through the pure food laws of the State, which it enforces. As a consequence of the high standards set by law and the vigilant enforcement of these statutes, New York State consumers enjoy the best and highest quality of milk and other food products of any consumers in the world.

The inspection upon which the enforcement of the state pure food laws depends takes place in retail stores, wholesale storage-houses, on the farms, and in the various places where food stuffs are produced, stored or processed.

Canned Goods Examined
Tomatoes, for example, are graded as to quality when they come in from the fields to the canning factories, and the processes of canning are carefully inspected so that only fresh, wholesome, ripe and clean fruit is packed under sanitary conditions. After canning, the product is again examined, to make sure that the containers have the required weight of wholesome fruit, not diluted in any way with water or unnecessary liquid.

Similar inspection takes place in canning corn, cherries, and all other fruits and vegetables. The cans on the retailers' shelves are also examined to see that they have not spoiled because of imperfections in the cans or the canning process or from too long storage.

Protecting Oyster Eaters
Oysters and scallops, when soaked in fresh water, absorb enormous amounts of liquid which later is released as a liquor. Unscrupulous tradesmen sometimes take advantage of this peculiarity of the oyster and scallop by selling too high a proportion of liquor or added water. Ten per cent water in the containers is the standard to which the Department of Agriculture and Markets holds the handlers of oysters and scallops.

Milk is examined as to quality and grade, involving such matters as the percentage of butter fat contained, freedom from undesirable sediment or bacteria, odor and flavor, health of the producing cows and of their attendants, and the length of time it has taken to bring the milk from the country to the consumer's doorstep.

And so it goes with other food-stuffs produced in the Empire State—butter, cheese, eggs. The New York State consumer is in a favorable situation indeed. Buy New York State food products with confidence and pride!
