BITS OF BLARNEY

Wonder how the man felt last Friday morning who wears B.V.D.'s all winter?

If the winter was on the wane he would take a pencil and a bit of paper and divide up and see which town was paying most per person for aid and proceed to establish a residence there. The figures vary from $1.52 up to $8.71 per person per month for January.

Oh, for the thermometer that will go a little lower in winter and a little higher in summer than any owned by my neighbors! Such might be the plaint of the ambitious individual. Reports in Belmont ran from 30 to 44; take your choice. Granted that location does make a material difference.

Thinking about the opening of the baseball season will help some on these cold, wintry days. But not so much as a nice wood fire.

Plumbers were much-sought individuals during the "Big Freeze." In Belmont the hardware store had 30 calls at one time and three men worked all day Sunday giving suffering families relief. They even worked nights, too. Their perseverance was real public service.

THE MEASURE OF SUCCESS

Use of accurate measurements in all recipes is one way to avoid cooking failures and to practice thrift, says the New York State college of home economics.

Any homemaker who doubts the importance of accurate measurements should make tests with a three-layer cake. Make one layer with a little less flour than the recipe specifies; make the second layer with the exact amount of flour required; and add a little extra flour for the third layer. Then bake the three layers in the same oven for the same amount of time. The layer with too much flour will crack open and be heavy; the one with too little flour will fall.

Test measuring utensils to start the campaign against cooking failures. A standard cup holds just one-half pint; the handiest kind has the last graduation, the cupful mark, just level with the lip so that flour may be leveled off without packing it down. The tablespoon is the second important measure. Remember that 16 standard tablespoons level, make one standard cupful. Check this with the already-tested measuring cup. Three level teaspoons make one tablespoon.

When a recipe calls for a level tablespoon, it means a tablespoon leveled off with a knife or other straight edge. For half a spoonful, divide the leveled-off spoon lengthwise.

To measure flour accurately, sift it before measuring, directly into the cup. Never shake or pack the flour down or dip the cup into it. Fill the cup lightly by the tablespoon with freshly sifted flour.

Cottage cheese is the best cheese for the small child. Combine with chopped dried fruits or with jam or jelly for his salads or sandwiches.

Children should be encouraged to begin early to make their own decisions without depending on adults. If they are allowed independence in small things at first, their judgment will increase with experience.

MANY VEGETABLES ARE NOW FROZEN

Quick Process Industry Described by D. K. Tressler to Cornell Visitors.

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 15.—Only in recent years have fruits been packed and frozen in small packages for retail distribution, D. K. Tressler of the New York State agricultural experiment station at Geneva told a group of farm and home week visitors today. In former years, he said the business was known as "cold packing" and was confined to packing of small fruits with sugar or sugar syrup in barrels.

When quick freezing was developed, the speaker pointed out, objectionable changes in the fruit were prevented.

The freezing of vegetables is a relatively new industry, Mr. Tressler said. It did not become commercially important until 1900 when the packing of peas and spinach started. The list of vegetables now frozen commercially and cited by the speaker included: rhubarb, mushrooms, peas, spinach, cauliflower, broccoli, sweet corn as whole grain and on the cob, asparagus, lima beans, snap beans and parsnips.

"Both fruits and vegetables tend to dry out during storage," he stated. "It is necessary, therefore, to pack them compactly in moisture-proof packages if they are to be in marketable condition after many months' storage."

A large number of studies, Mr. Tressler concluded, of different varieties of fruits and vegetables have been necessary to develop the quick freezing industry.

Washington

1732 - - - 1799

WASHINGTON'S supreme contribution to our country was his unmatched leadership. It is to that ability that we pause in respect on the anniversary of his birth, February 22nd, for without such leadership our nation would never have grown to its present eminence . . . Americanism begins at home . . . with you . . . It consists of living up to the courage of our forefathers . . . of being men unafraid . . . Slowly but surely values have been readjusted during the last three years and a new perspective has been gained as to what is essential to happiness. The dull gray skies of the long bleak winter of depression are clearing. The bright spring sun, of another victory won, will soon be breaking thru . . . to warm our hearts . . . to renew our faith in ourselves and to make us glad that we too proved ourselves to be men unafraid.
