"Sometimes our electric bills run $4 a month . . . sometimes less. But I'd feel they were reasonable even if we used the electricity only for our refrigerator."

"Actually, we also have an electric washer and iron, kitchen mixer, vacuum cleaner, percolator, toaster and a couple of other things. Yet our bills now are only a few cents a day more than they were several years ago, when we used electricity only for lights, and a few small appliances."

Yes, ma'am. The cost of electricity in this neighborhood has certainly come down a lot in the past few years. Electricity is really the biggest bargain you buy. And you'll find, too, that the more you use, the bigger bargain it is.
