WE MUST BE ALERT

This week one of my neighbor towns—a "county seat" town, was startled by the development of two cases of typhoid fever! The excitement was like that of a military invasion almost. Typhoid fever! Instantly the physicians sprang into action—the source of the infection must be found—and wiped out. It was discovered to be in the city's water supply.

Two things imperative and without delay: First, boil ALL WATER used by the population of the city—and immunize as many as possible by giving the necessary vaccine that is now of proven value. The town is doing just that. An epidemic of typhoid must be prevented. Even as I write this, the news reached me—that one of the cases, a bright young man—died of the fever.

I remember the Spanish-American War days; various army camps reeked with typhoid; vaccination was unknown. Came the immense World War army—all immunized—no typhoid cases that I heard of.

A case of typhoid fever in your community, if you should be so unfortunate as to have one, should bring instant investigation of the water supply; if the water is found pure, then search all foods and sanitation within the district. Don't trust your road overseer or street commissioner to conduct the investigation. It is the duty of your physician—if he cannot do it he must have it done properly. You can't tell whether water contains typhoid by just looking at a pailful of it. Call the bacteriologist.

The typhoid germ is a "bacillus." That means "rod-shaped." Like a short section of hair—only many times smaller—invisible. The typhoid bacillus will live in well-water indefinitely. It attacks the human intestine, where the disease "runs its course." We can immunize.

In the history of man, dating back 3,421 years, there have been only 268 years of peace against 3,153 years of war, while 8,000 peace treaties have been concluded in that time, according to the Society of International Law at London.

THE BOOK by BRUCE BARTON A KINGSHIP REFUSED

JESUS' miracles caused His reputation to spread before Him, and the most dramatic of them, the feeding of a host of people, was followed by one great moment of triumph, which, however, marked the beginning of the end.

That multitude of people whom He had seated in groups of fifty and a hundred rose to their feet after their miraculous meal and discovered that they were an army. They looked up with new eyes at the strong young man who had fed them as Moses had fed their ancestors in the wilderness.

The words of the prophets surged into their minds. Here indeed was a son of David; here was the promised leader who should free his people, drive the Romans before him, and sit again upon the throne in Jerusalem. With a great shout they surged forward.

Did He hesitate for a moment? Was there an instant in which the temptation to seize this proffered leadership battled with His real ideals? We know only the final decision, which was quickly made:

When Jesus therefore perceived that they would come and take him by force, to make him a king, he departed again into a mountain himself alone.

From that moment His popularity waned. Most of those who had followed Him in the hope of reward through a successful revolution began to drop away.

Even the twelve were disappointed and disheartened. Why was it necessary for Him to be so inflexible? Why must He always abuse the Pharisees and other influential people? Why turn away so abruptly from those who could be of so much help? Jesus alone saw clearly. He led them away from Galilee into the foreign shores of Tyre and Sidon. He wanted to be alone with them, to try to make them understand why He must refuse temporal power; why, indeed, it would be necessary for Him to insure the permanency of His message by sealing it with His blood.

He must "go into Jerusalem," He told them, "and suffer many things of the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed." Indignantly they sought to dissuade Him. "Be it far from thee, Lord," the hotheaded Peter exclaimed, "this shall never be unto thee." Their remonstrances were in vain.

The whole last year of His ministry has a different tone. He is far more emphatic, far more audacious. Knowing that compromise is useless, He lashes out against the smug complacency of the Pharisees who render lip service to Jehovah but are rotten at the core with selfishness and greed.

A DISH FOR THE WEEK

A sandwich made of juicy ham broiled over an open fire, and a crisp, delicious salad give an ideal picnic combination on a warm summer's day. A fresh, crisp, cold salad is possible on a picnic. The fixings may be carried on ice in a container made of a tin cracker can, the cracks of which have been filled with paraffin.

An appetizing salad for such a picnic is a mixture of lettuce, tomato, and new green onions. These foods with French dressing in a separate jar, a sharp knife, and an old bowl may be easily carried to the picnic place. When it is time to eat, shred the lettuce with the hands cut the tomatoes in eighths, cut the onions up fine so that they will blend well with the other mixture, and pour French dressing over all.

French Dressing One cup salad oil 1/2 cup vinegar diluted half with water or pickle juice 1 tablespoon sugar 1/2 teaspoon salt 1 1/2 tablespoons paprika Onion juice.

Mix the ingredients together and shake them well. French dressing that has been allowed to stand for a short time is better than that freshly made, because the flavor blends on standing.

The New York State college of home economics suggests the following picnic menu for grown-ups: Broiled ham sandwiches, vegetable salad, fruit, cookies, coffee.
