LADIES' AID SOCIETY

By Bessie E. Clarke

From near the beginning of the history of this church, the women have maintained a separate organization in addition to their part in the regular work of the church. The first one was called the "Ladies' Mite Society." Money was raised for missions and other benevolent work. During the Civil War it was known as "Soldiers' Aid Society," and sent hundreds of dollars worth of provisions and clothing to Washington to be distributed among the soldiers.

Early in the year 1874 some of the women met at the home of Mrs. Dencie Eaton to discuss plans for reorganization.

On August 9th of that year a meeting was held at the home of Mrs. George Rosebush and the present constitution was adopted. The first president was Celia Rosebush Cobb. The first secretary was Clara Crandall Titsworth.

Others who joined at this first meeting were, as far as we can ascertain, Amanda Rosebush, Selucia Livermore, Bernice Eaton, Laura Crandall, Nora Crandall, Mary Crandall, Emma Crandall, Alice Clarke, Amelia Cottrell, Caroline Greene, Eliza Bassett and Helen Clarke.

The usual plan for raising money has been that of serving a supper once a month, at first at the homes of the members, the hostess serving the entire meal. Soon the crowds became so large as to make this rather burdensome and it was decided to divide the society into divisions. Each division in order of their number furnished all the food and served the meal.

We continued to meet at the homes until 1914, when the Parish House was purchased.

Various other ways were tried for raising money. Bazaars, plays and selling household supplies were all used. Friends were generous and the Parish House was soon paid for and has since been thoroughly repaired. Again our supper plan was changed, each member furnishing one or two articles of food each month while the division next in number washed the dishes for those serving. This plan bids fair to become permanent.

There have been quiltings, dowers and fruit sent to the sick and shut-ins, needy families helped, care given to the sick and we have helped keep the church buildings in repair. Some very interesting and helpful programs have been presented in connection with our suppers.

HOW, WHAT and WHY?

The Andover News has arranged with the Office of Information of the New York State colleges of agriculture and home economics to answer questions about problems of farm and home. If you enclose a self-addressed stamped envelope and mention the name of this paper you will receive a direct reply to your query from the colleges. Do not ask more than one question in one letter or on one post card. Ask as many questions as you like, but make each one a separate communication.

Lime in Pewter Pots
Mrs. W. M. M., Poplar Ridge, asks: "What will remove lime from pewter pots?"
Ella M. Cushman of the state college of home economics answers: "If you use vinegar to remove the lime deposit in pewter and are careful not to leave it on the pewter too long, no injury will result. If the vinegar comes in contact with the lime only and is then rinsed off and neutralized with washing soda or any other mild alkali, the job will be successful."

Stain on Horses
M. J. D., Wolcott, writes: "Will you tell me the name of a bleach powder to take the stain off white horses?"
Professor R. B. Hinman of the animal husbandry department replies: "The same query has been received from a party in West Henrietta. They say that they have used blueing on some white oxen and that the results have not been satisfactory.
"Some of the best showmen of horses and dairy cattle in the state say that, for small areas, hydrogen peroxide is one of the best to use provided that you can obtain a supply that is not too expensive.
"If this takes too much money, I suggest javelle water, sometimes known as lime water, whose active element is chlorate of lime, the same as in any bleaching powder. The stain area should be washed in this solution and the solution washed out again."

will spend her two weeks vacation at the exposition and visiting friends in Memphis, Tenn.
