Why don't you
PRACTICE
what you preach?

● If milk is good for others, it's good for you and your family. Why don't you TRY it?

This is a dairying community. We ought to know more about milk (and probably do!) than people in the big cities. Yes, those city folks run rings around us when it comes to drinking milk. Something wrong somewhere. We ought to not be excusable by being ourselves, the greatest consumers of milk in the State.

It's never too late to mend. Let's resolve right now, during Milk Month, to get in there and drink. A quart a day for every child—A pint a day for every adult. That's the prescription of men and women wise in the way of diet and health. It isn't such a large order, is it?

For grown-ups, it means a glass of milk at the noon meal and another at the evening meal. For children, it means four glasses, with or between meals. But it means more than a schedule. It means new health, new vigor, new interest in life and people and work. And what a pleasant prescription it is!

A glass of milk, ivory and cool, fragrant with the breath of our own farm-lands. Lift it to your lips and drain every drop. Sip by sip, it will refresh your body, for the day's tasks; it will brighten your mind with its nourishing nectar; and it will help to restore prosperity to this community in which we live and love and hope.

Drink more Milk: IT'S GOOD FOR YOU

IT'S GOOD FOR BUSINESS
