HUMOR

Humor, when used at the right time, is a very good thing to have. Most everyone has humor but they use it at the wrong time and make an ill effect.

Everyone will agree with me that Will Rogers was the greatest humorist of his time. He never used it to hurt anyone's feelings. He always used his humor on great men and women or on influential citizens. When the nation heard that Will Rogers was killed, the nation as a whole went into mourning. This proves that humor has just as large a place in national life as politics or statesmanship.

Humor makes things interesting in meetings. We all know that when we are working, our tasks seem lighter if some one makes funny remarks that don't hurt anyone's feelings.

I think we have all listened to what we call "dry" lectures and the kind that are really good. If we analyzed the difference between them we would find out that the "dry" one needed some funny remarks to make it interesting.

The teachers would appreciate it if we pupils would use our bright ideas in more appropriate places than we sometimes do. Sillyness is NOT humor.

WHAT WE ALL KNOW

Every day someone is doing something that someone else could not do. It's this obstinate class of people who keep the progress of the world moving forward. When we ask advice we are only seeking confirmation of our own judgment.

By saying little, some people acquire a reputation for knowing much. This does not apply to editors.

One thing this country needs is a fountain pen that's good to the last drop.

The channel that great minds run in is never overcrowded.

Luck is the crossroad where preparation and opportunity meet.

The trouble with this depression is that we have to do without so many necessities in order to continue buying luxuries.

Rockefeller puts dimes into circulation and Woolworth takes them out.

Footprints on the sands of time are not made by sitting down.

One thing in the Lost and Found which will never be found is—Lost Time.

Regents are just around the corner.

FAMOUS SAYINGS BY FAMOUS PEOPLE

Fotney Karcane, "That's what you think."

Miss Day, "Boys will be boys."

Mary McAndrew, "Catch 'em up."

Milt Briggs, "I'm in the mood for love."

John Baker, "Darned if I know."

Carroll Burdick, "Don't ya' see?"

Eddie Kemp, "Have a good time."

Maxine Crandall, "A large time was had by all."

Jo Butler, "Hello Ray."

Eddie Alderson, "I can imagine, hmmm."

Charlotte Cook, "I'm staying down tonight."

BOE ZECKELY COLUMN

Dear Boe:

What would you do with a cat that eats calf's liver, drinks Grade-A milk, sits on living room chairs all day and howls on the back fence all night?

—P.P.

Dear Purr-Flexed:

Cut his tail off just back of his neck.

GYM FLOOR PAINTED

During the Christmas vacation the gym floor was painted. The basketball lines were painted, including new lines to meet the new requirements of boys' basketball. There were, too, blocks marked off for the game "Shuffleboard," and lines for tennis games.

ANDOVER HIGH SCHOOL DEFEATS CANISTEO

Andover High School defeated Canisteo on the local court last Friday night by a score of 22-15.

Andover started the scoring when Fulkerson sank a field goal from the foul line. M. Ellis then made a field goal for Canisteo to tie the score. The purple and white displayed good passwork during the first half, but the many missed baskets marred it. Canisteo was leading at the half 9-6.

In the second half Andover unleashed a sensational attack led by Briggs, who turned in his best game of the season. Andover's defense was much better the last half, as was their offensive playing, when they scored seven field goals and two foul shots while Canisteo made but three field goals.

For Andover, Fulkerson, Briggs and McGill were outstanding; Silsbee for Canisteo.

GUESS WHO?

Yes, this girl is in the Senior Class and is a member of the girls' basketball team. She also sings in the girls' glee club. She has dark brown, wavy hair and dark, sparkling eyes. She is of medium height and weight.

I need not tell you that she is an excellent dancer and a likeable person, for you must already know who she is.

Answer to last week's Guess Who—Jack Saunders.

HUMOR

Professor: "What is the most common impediment in the speech of American people?"

Mary Etta: "Chewing gum."

Miss Day: "Now, Louie, tell me which month has twenty-eight days."

Louie Dodge: "They all have."

Milton B.: "The marvels of nature have set me thinking."

J. Butler: "Isn't it wonderful what nature can do?"

Miss O'Connell: "Who wrote the greatest war song in the world?"

J. Lynch: "Mendelssohn!"

Miss O'Connell: "What was it?"

James: "Here comes the bride."

Judge: "Isn't this the second time you've appeared before me as a witness in this suit?"

Joe Mc: "No, judge. This is the first time I've worn it."

Laura B.: "When a man who bores me terribly asks me where I live, I always say in the country."

James L.: "How clever! Where do you really live?"

Laura: "In the country."

Don J.: "I think the driver in that car ahead must be a teacher."

Leo: "What makes you think so?"

Don: "Well, she was just as stubborn then about letting me pass."

Mother: "How is it you have not done your school homework?"

Phil L.: "I've decided not to do it any more. It's not fair. We pupils do the work and the teachers get paid for it."

!! The Spotlight !!

I've gathered lots of glimpses over the holidays.

To start with—who was Joe Mc. out strolling with Sunday night? It couldn't have been C. C., by any means.

Say, Orpha, why the letter on your sweater? It couldn't stand for Naples could it? You should live up to your school spirit, Orpha and wear an A instead.

Charlotte you kept the folks waiting a long time Saturday night while you and Eddie A. were out sightseeing.

We wonder if Jo Baker had a nice ride up from Wellsville Friday night. Ask her!

Regina, what's the matter with Wellsville? We notice you still have his ring.

Did you have a hard time getting the car to go Saturday night, Ruth I? He thought so, didn't he?

Maxine's house is getting to be a big attraction for folks, especially for Leo and we also noticed Milton B. headed that way, too. Better be good, Maxine or home you'll go.

Fotney was thrilled the other night to think she was riding on the bobs with the G-man.

So Phil was trying to make a hit with Sally—now Phil, act your age.

Who was the dame John C. had at the show, Sunday night? Why so bashful, John?

So Jim C. has lost his basketball friend and has now taken over Edna J. as his standby? Nice going, Edna.

So Ida Mae had a friend Friday night on her way home? We wonder who it was. Ask her for details.

We noticed Bea K. and Red Mc. out for a little stroll the other night. Must be Jim is losing out.

Roberta and her sister enjoy their Sunday rides in a cpter. Can you account for this fact, Henry?

It looked like a new romance the other night when Don J. was dancing with Corah Mead.

We wonder what all the commotion was after the girls' game Friday night? Maybe the coach can enlighten the subject.

What is this I hear about Jean B. and Francis M. going steady? Whoa, there, brother!

The Spotlight wants to know what attracts Bernice C. up to Greenwood.

By the way, Ida C. has a new boy friend and they tell me he lives on Greenwood street and they call him Sweet Pea.

So Cleon P. got a little drum for Christmas and he says Santa brought it so he could entertain Thelma C. evenings.

Hot off the griddle—Vic Y. seen recently with Edna H. Nice going, Vic.

We also saw L. Howland at the midnight show with D. Farwell on New Year's Eve.

What's Fanny looking for six girls for some night? Do you suppose you'll get them? We hope so.

The Spotlight is now signing off until next week. Station AHS.

THE SPOTLIGHT.

SCHOOL NURSE EMPLOYED

Beginning with the second term of school, the services of a school nurse will be available, thru the employing of Mrs. Carol Carpenter in that capacity by the Board of Education.

Mrs. Carpenter served as county nurse in this county for a period of five years and is particularly well qualified to serve the school children of Andover. Her duties will consist of giving advice and assistance in cases of pupil illness, assisting with the annual medical examination and following up the treatment of defects found, preventing the spread of skin diseases and other communicable diseases. Much of her time will be spent in visiting the pupils' homes.

It is hoped that the number of days lost by pupils on account of sickness will be materially lessened and the general health of the school children improved with Mrs. Carpenter's help.

GRADE BRIEFS

The Eighth Grade pupils are having review classes after school.

The first grade has started a toy shop unit. Each child is bringing one toy from home. These are going to be placed on shelves behind a counter. By playing store with money, they will learn the value of small change.

Anna Cooper and Patricia Lynch have had the greatest number of perfect papers in the Sixth Grade. Each one has had 11 perfect papers.

Grasshoppers, like all other insects, breathe thru openings in the sides of the abdomen and cannot be smothered by holding their heads under water.

ANDOVER TO MEET FRIENDSHIP FRIDAY

The purple and white will meet the fast Friendship team this coming Friday, on the Friendship court.

Both Andover and Friendship are in the lead in the B Class division, each having won two and lost one game. Last year Friendship beat Andover by one point for the championship of Class B.

On Tuesday night, Jan. 14th, the A. H. S. will meet Fillmore there, in a league game. This will be a very hard game because Fillmore's court is one of the most difficult to play on in Allegany county.

Professor Brownell will discuss the principles of good breeding as they apply to the breeding of dairy cattle, and the building of a more profitable dairy herd, and answer all questions which are brought up at the school.

Annual Dairy School to be Held January 23 and 24

Professor Stanley Brownell of the State College of Agriculture, will conduct a Dairy Breeding School, open to all dairymen of Allegany and nearby counties. This will be a two day school, with morning and afternoon sessions, to be held at Belmont, on Jan. 23 and 24.

Professor Brownell will discuss the principles of good breeding as they apply to the breeding of dairy cattle, and the building of a more profitable dairy herd, and answer all questions which are brought up at the school.

Already there was a large crowd at the field. But to Lieutenant Dixon they seemed to be acting strangely. Many of them were gestulating wildly and some, with cupped hands, appeared to be shouting to him.

A man in overalls rushed from a hangar, held up a wheel and pointed to the left side of it. Lieutenant Dixon knew what that meant. Something had gone wrong with his landing gear. He gave his ship the gun, and roaring up into the sky, swung back towards his home port, Hartford.

Two thousand feet up, Lieutenant Dixon turned the controls over to Weisgard and stepped back into the plane. Laboriously he cut a hole through the fuselage large enough for him to work his body through. Ordering Baltrum to hold him by his ankles, Dixon gripped both sides of the cut with his feet and lowered himself through the hole, until he hung head downward above the wheels. A cracked bolt had loosened the axle of the landing gear, rendering it useless.

Lieutenant Dixon drew himself back into the plane and unfastened his safety belt. Lowering himself through the hole again, he tried to fasten the axle in place with his belt. It was too short. Back into the ship he crawled and searched around until he found a length of rope. He knotted it to the safety belt and once more dangled head downwards from the plane. Still there was insufficient length to make the needed repair. Rummaging around again he discovered a discarded shoe lace. It seemed a slender thread on which to hang the lives of three men. But the chance had to be taken. With hands and teeth Lieutenant Dixon knotted the lace to the rope.

For the third time he lowered himself into space. Weisgard tried to keep the ship on an even keel. But he was inexperienced. Sometimes he would let it slip, causing Dixon to let go his hold of the axle to keep his balance. Then the work would have to be done all over again. Five minutes, ten minutes, sometimes twenty minutes at a time he toiled grimly on, until the rush of blood to his head would force him back into the plane to rest. One hour, two hours, two hours and a half passed before Dixon crawled back painfully for the last time and took over the controls from Weisgard.

Carefully he maneuvered the plane towards the earth at Brainard Field. The wheels touched the ground. The plane lurched drunkenly from side to side, but remained upright. He taxied across the ground and stopped. With the last revolution of the propeller the plane tipped over on its damaged side. But then it did not matter. They were safe.

Look For The Brand On Cheese; It Guarantees Quality, Value

Cheese Is Away the Best and Most Economical of Animal Foods

By PETER G. TEN EYCK

Commissioner, Department of Agriculture and Markets, Albany, New York

ONE of the most economical and best of all animal products, cheese deserves even greater attention by the consuming public than it has today. Too many diners overlook it. To you who have the responsibility of selecting food that is both palatable and wholesome at low cost, cheese is recommended.

housekeeper to follow in selecting cheese:

"The New York State brand on Cheddar Cheese is a guarantee that it is made of whole milk. Cheddar cheese may also be made of skim milk, or of curd that has been washed with water; in either case the label tells the story to the buyer who is interested in the content. Wash
