Murals Being Painted at Alfred

Under the direction of Prof. Donald Schreckengost, sophomore and freshmen design students are making the first sketches of a set of murals which will adorn the walls of the New York State College of Ceramics at Alfred. The wall decorations will depict the mining, preparation and manufacture of clay.

The scene of the murals will be one of the rooms in which the actual industrial processes are carried out. A wall approximately 60 feet long divided into three panels will receive the murals. The designs will be first drawn to scale and then enlarged on muslin or canvas.

This will then be fastened to the wall. This will be the first time in Alfred's history, that the art of mural painting will be applied to the college buildings.

Around Our House

SERVING CANNED MEATS

Since many persons, and farm folks especially, make a practice of canning meat in the winter, homemakers should vary the flavor of this meat from time to time so that it will not become tiresome. Unfortunately, canned meat can not be made to taste like fresh roasted meat, but the flavor of the meat can be varied with different cooking methods and with combinations of other meats and vegetables, says the New York State college of home economics.

Sometimes the meat may simply be removed from the can, the jelly stock removed, and the meat placed in a pan and browned in the oven or browned in a slightly greased frying pan. When thoroughly browned and heated through, it is placed on a platter and gravy made from the jelly stock poured over it.

A roast, roast veal particularly, may be cooked in the oven until it is thoroughly browned, and then sour cream may be poured over it. The oven temperature is then lowered and the meat basted with this liquid until the meat is thoroughly heated thru. Toward the end of this heating process, a pinch or two of dry, grated cheese may be added if desired.

Tomato sauce will vary the flavor of these meats, as will onions, tomatoes, peppers and celery cooked with the meats. In meat loaf, meat cakes or meat patties, ground raw ham or sausage often adds a distinctive touch.

When making stews of canned meats, parboiled vegetables should be used so that the cooking time for the meat may be shortened. This keeps much of the flavor in the meat.

IF YOU ARE HEALTHY

The fox being chased, or the hunted hare, runs in circles, if left to his own instinct. The big planets above our heads move in circular orbits. It seems to me the human mind also performs in a similar manner—in circles—as I watch the development of years. Many of us are coming out at the same door where we went in, like the old poet, Amara.

Time was when we lifted hands in holy horror at a diet of fat meat. Today, our calm judgment is that fat meats, and well-nourished bodies are the best fortification against tuberculosis! I have heard meats, cheese, eggs and other dependable foods condemned solemnly, even for the healthy people! If you had a greasy skin you were ordered off substantial diet immediately.

We know better now. Fat meat is not only desirable, it is essential to life and strength!

People have looked at me slantways when I have told them that gravy was better for their "kids" than cod-liver oil—and I've been telling 'em that for nearly a half century.

I knew a family who, all of them, were swept away by tuberculosis of the lungs—all but one, the last little daughter. She consulted me a few days after my graduation in medicine—about her lungs. Her three sisters and a brother had died of it. She naturally felt that she was doomed.

"Fanny," I said, "you go home and learn to live on fat meats, rich milk and eggs. See that you do that as many times a day as you sit down to the table." I made it as impressive as I knew how. She promised strict obedience.

Today, Fanny is getting a little old—but she weighs 175, and still enjoys her fat bacon!

If our dietitians would tell us how to avoid the human hog, we would be happier and healthier.

Food Market Advice

APPLES are the big news of this week's market. Apples for cooking, apples for eating and all purpose apples are being offered at most attractive prices, among them such varieties as McIntosh, Greening, Stayman, York, Delicious, Rome Beauty and Winesap.

Pork and Beef Lower
Fresh pork cuts are somewhat cheaper and beef, particularly rounds and chuck, are somewhat lower. Lamb prices are slightly easier than a week ago but veal is higher. Poultry prices remain fairly firm.

Fresh fish prices depend largely on weather conditions and good supplies and fair prices are anticipated this week.

Eggs More Plentiful
Fresh eggs are now sufficiently plentiful and low in price to replace storage eggs in many stores tho at a slightly higher price level. Since the new storage season starts in February, remaining stocks of last year's crop will probably have to be sold at a sacrifice. These eggs are good food—but should be bought in small quantities as needed. The price of butter has remained at last

A DISH FOR THE WEEK

Coddled apples covered with custard sauce is a welcome dessert both to children and to grown-ups. It's popular with the family meal-planer, too, for it is nourishing, inexpensive, easy to make, and may be used immediately after cooking or kept to serve later.

Coddled Apples

Four cooking apples
One cup of sugar
One and one-half cups of water.
Wash the apples and remove the centers. Make a sirup of the sugar and water and boil the apples in the sirup until they are tender.

Custard Sauce

Heat one cup of milk, add a tablespoon of sugar, and pour slowly over one beaten egg yolk. Cook this mixture in the top of a double-boiler, stirring constantly until the custard coats a spoon, then remove from the heat. Do not let the water in the lower part of the boiler reach the boiling point, as overheating may make the custard curdle.

The following supper or luncheon menu with this dessert is suggested by the New York State college of home economics:

Potato soup; toast sticks, cabbage, carrot and raisin salad; coddled apples with custard sauce; ginger cookies if desired; and milk for everyone or at least for the children.

Buffalo News Almanac Out

For the fourth consecutive year the Buffalo Evening News almanac made its appearance this week.

This valuable little compendium of useful information has become, in the past three years, an institution in Western New York, and several thousand business men, professional men, farmers, industrial workers and housewives now depend on it for facts which they need in haste.

The Western New York section of the News almanac is more complete this year than ever before. It includes lists of county and town officials in the Eighth Judicial District, city officials, New York State bureaus with jurisdiction in Western New York, and complete lists of officers and location of county farm and home bureaus.

Popular tables of weights and measures, tables for computing interest, and countless other short cuts to information also are included.

The women also have not been forgotten. Their section of the almanac includes recipes, domestic science "tips," beauty aids and a hundred other bits of information and advice which the busy housewife needs constantly.

All the breeds of geese in the United States are descended from the wild gray goose. They have been domesticated for centuries.
