Why Carborundum Brand Sharpening Stones Cut Fast and Clean

It is the thousands upon thousands of grains of Carborundum Brand Silicon Carbide held in the band that do the sharpening or cutting. These grains, being so uniformly hard and sharp, give a keen, quick uniform edge; they impart to the stone the ability to stay sharp longer without filing or glazing, because under pressure the grains split or break up into new cutting edges; and again, because of the uniform hardness and sharpness of "Carborundum," the stones wear uniformly and definitely, cut the edge on any tool much faster than the ordinary sharpening stone.

There is only one "Carborundum"—and this internationally known and advertised product is a mark of high quality. "Carborundum stones" keep sharp longer; wear uniformly with no soft spots; they cut fast and clean and give a much better edge quicker. "Carborundum" insures satisfaction and lasting service.

There's a Big Difference

Some louse killers (so-called) with which we have had experience, just turned out one of life's failures. Cheap in price, worthless in quality. Not so with Gray Lawn Louse Chase—it starts and completes the job.

Feeding stock that harbor lice is throwing half the feed in the fire; that is, unless you are fond of lice. Get a can of Gray Lawn, it is great stuff, handles more comfortably on a cold day—this weather is just right to start operations.

Health Guard

Serves as a substitute for the stove pipe on gas ranges and heaters. The Health Guard allows any placing of gas ranges or heaters in a room, and is so constructed as to have escaping gas and grease pass over a metal composition containing cups, which cleanses and absorbs all dirt and undesirable matter that would otherwise get out into the room. Modernize your gas range and gas heaters with a Health Guard and see the difference.

Hendel Oil Bill Will Die in Committee

Albany, Feb. 5.—"The Hendel oil refining tax bill, providing for a two-cent tax on every gallon of crude oil refined, will die in committee," declared Assemblyman William H. MacKenzie of Allegany county, following a conference after Monday night's session with Speaker Irving M. Ives.

Armed with hundreds of requests from constituents in the oil producing area for opposition to the measure, Assemblyman MacKenzie led the faction of Western New York Assemblymen in the conference at which Assemblyman Oswald D. Heck of Schenectady, majority leader, and Assemblyman Moffatt, chairman of Ways and Means, were present.

"You have more than substantial grounds on which you base your opposition to the Hendel measure, Mr. MacKenzie," said Speaker Ives. "You can rest assured that the bill will never leave the committee table and that it will never even reach the Assembly floor for a second reading or discussion."

L. & C. Have Purchased Two Big Stocks of Goods

There is one Hornell firm that seems to be doing business in a big way, despite the hard times. We refer to the progressive merchants known as the L. & C., Coat Suit & Dress Co.

This enterprising firm has recently purchased the big stocks of two firms. The Star Clothing House of Hornell and the stock of the Ivan Bernkoff department store of Corning, N. Y.

The Star Clothing House was owned by the late Henry Erlich, and had been doing business in Hornell for nearly a half century. It included an immense line of men's clothing and furnishings.

The Bernkoff department store has been in business in Corning for years and it was an outstanding store. It is retiring from business, and the L. & C. has this week purchased their entire stock and will have it on sale at their Hornell store this week. It consists of ladies' apparel, coats, suits and dresses.

Both of these stocks were purchased at a very low figure, and the L. & C. are going to give their many customers the advantage of this remarkable low price. The prices they are quoting are ridiculously low as may be seen in their advertisements in today's News.
