IN DISCUSSING BRAKES We spoke of our cars as transportation systems . . . our own private railroads, so to speak, with home for our terminal As a rule we engineers behind the steering wheel work only on local the rest of our regular stops. But every now and then, runs . . . back and forth from the office, stores, and and especially when vacation time rolls around, we're likely to want to change our run. And one fine day there we are, out on the main line, at the throttle of our "Overland Limited," if you please. tant runs like that is the one who has taken his train out and brought it exactly what they say. When a semaphore says slow down, he slows down. Whenever he gets the sign of a curve or grade, he adjusts his speed accordingly. Every red and green and amber light that comes winking through the darkness means a definite order that he'd never dream of ignoring. And when a flare warns him of danger, he just stops until he gets the go-ahead. Now, when we pull out of our station and on to the main track, if we are good engineers we'll take good heed of our signals as they come flashing by-"Curve," "Steep Hill," red light-"Stop." But along comes one that says "Intersection." and there doesn't happen to be any car passing on that other road. Or one that says "School, go slow" and there aren't any children about. Or "Slippery when wet," but today the road is dry. And what's the result? Why, a good many of us get to taking those 🗦 signals with a grain of salt, and, after a while with so much salt that if we aren't careful those warnings may lose their meaning.

our roadside engine in good shape, and to watch our fuel and oil, or even to follow the rule of not driving too many hours at a stretch. Those things are highly important, but it is just as important to watch for our signals and follow them religiously, sack that ever-welcome message "Arrived safe after pleasant trip."
