PLAYS

Have you ever stopped to think of the value of a play?

The audience of Shakespeare's plays say "the play's the thing," and it is known that no other entertainment has a greater appeal to the people than an interesting play, whether a tragedy or a comedy. We gain from plays the technique of successful playwriting, the art of acting and a means of earning a salary.

Some plays are considered on a higher plane than others, because of the outstanding ability of the actors effective scenes and the structure of the play itself.

Some exceptionally good dramas now being presented on both screen and stage are "The Tale of Two Cities" by Charles Dickens, featuring Ronald Colman, Vos Straubers "Syrno De Bergerac" starring Walter Hampden, "The Magnificent Obsession," with Robert Taylor as the leading man and last but not least, "The Hobgoblin House," starring members of Andover High School Senior Class.

BOWLERS TIE FOR FIRST PLACE

The Andover bowling team traveled to Wellsville Wednesday night, March 4, to roll a double header with the Air Pre-heater and the Barons and won a decisive victory over both teams, thereby taking eight points and tying them for first place with the Ford V-8 team.

In the first match Bloss of Andover was high with a 212 game and Mead, also of Andover, rolled a high three game total of 534. In the second match Mead took the honors alone with a high single game of 211, and a high total of 572. Both matches were hard fought, the Andover team barely nosing out their opponents by a few points in several games.

By taking four points from both teams, the Andover team is tied with the Ford V-8 team for first place. The local team has only two more matches to roll, and if it wins those it is practically assured of first place.

Also this is the first time Andover has had a team in the Wellsville City League, they hold two places of honor. They had the high three game total of 2553 and Mead has a game of 242, the highest game that has been rolled in the league.

ANDOVER BEATS WELLSVILLE

Wellsville was defeated in a fast and exciting game on the Andover court Tuesday night. The scoring started with the sinking of a foul shot by Andover.

The Andover boys piled up six points before the Wellsville team could stop them. The fighting purple of Andover maintained a lead thru the half, but lost it in the third quarter when Wellsville forged ahead by two points.

The lead saw-sawed back and fourth thru the third quarter. The game ended just as Briggs sank a foul shot, breaking a tie and winning the game for Andover amidst the wild cheers of a crowd which for the most part showed exceedingly good sportsmanship, considering the intense but friendly rivalry existing between the two teams.

ANDOVER TO PLAY WELLSVILLE THERE

A big event of the season will take place Thursday night, March 5 on Wellsville's court at 8 o'clock, when the Andover cagers will meet Wellsville.

A close game took place Tuesday night of this week on the Andover court in which Andover was victorious by just one point. The Thursday game will be just as exciting. This game will probably close the basketball season.

BOE ZECKELY COLUMN

Dear Boe:

I am a hard-working, studious, junior who is having a very hard time trying to attract the interest of a certain girl. I have told her that my brother has a car which I might be able to borrow occasionally, but even that doesn't seem to help. I have been thinking about this a great deal. Maybe this is why the teachers have annoyed me so lately.

Please, Boe, tell me what to do next.

—"Puzzled Regan"

Dear "Puzzled Regan": I'm afraid there's no hope! If neither you nor the car seem to interest her, you had better say home nights and wait for someone else. Don't get discouraged, remember, Lester, there's always another.

Brace up and take it like a man.

"HOBGOBLIN HOUSE"

No doubt you've seen plays that have fairly made your flesh creep—we all have, but oh ye shades of Caesar's ghost! Here's one that tops them all—a play that will send ice-cold shivers down the spine and make every hair stand on end. But for every thrill there's a hearty laugh.

Miss Priscilla Carter is peeved because her two nieces have fallen in love with two "silly young nincompoops." She purchases the grim old Hobgoblin House in the foothills of the Ozarks and here in the seclusion of the mountains she plans a safe retreat where the girls shall not see their lovers for at least six months on penalty of being disinherited. And what a mess they get into—ghosts and ghostly doings everywhere! Just as luck would have it, they arrive on the very night that old Bluebeard Bronson, who once committed a murder in the house, is supposed to revisit the scene of his crimes. And does he come? Well, at any rate there are some strange happenings on this night of nights. When things are at their height, the boys arrive—just in time to rescue the family from a desperate band of crooks. Not till then does Miss Priscilla relent.

All parts in this captivating play are good. The characters include: The crotchety Miss Priscilla; the determined nieces, Marion and Jill; the brave but fun-loving boys, Frank and Jack Loring; Susan, the "Henglish 'housekeeper'; Henry Goober and Delilah Worts, two as comical dorkies as you've ever seen; old Darius Krupp, the ancient caretaker of the Hobgoblin House; Bluebeard Bronson, the escaped "maniac"; Bill Wilkins, his keeper, and then—"The Headless Phantom."

The American Legion Band will furnish the music for the play Friday evening and Thursday evening. The music will be furnished by an orchestra.

HORNELL GIRLS WIN GAME

The Andover girls were defeated Friday night, Feb. 28th, on the Hornell court by one point, after a fast and exciting game.

High scorers for Andover were Beatrice Kruger and Mary Burns. Guild was high scorer for the Hornell team. By the first quarter, the teams were tied, 5-5, and by the half, Hornell led 13 to 7.

In the last half, the Andover girls showed their ability as basketball players and made many points. When the whistle was blown Hornell led by one point, and Andover sank a basket which was not counted.

!! The Spotlight !!

Hi, ho! everybody! This is me and me is I, and I is myself and myself is the one who knows all there is to know and sees all that isn't to be seen.

There is one thing I'm going to see this week which all of you should see and that is the Senior play, which is to be previewed Friday morning at 9 a. m. If you're in doubt as to whether you want to pay out money to see it or not, come and find out.

Saturday night was Leap Year night. As yet I have not heard any results of the night except for the fact that Marilla Ianson is wearing a diamond. (So is Charlotte Cook.)

You didn't know I was at the Freshman party, did you? Well, I was and I wasn't very slow in concluding that there must be an affair starting between Marian Burgett and Clyde Briggs. Or is it just starting?

Yes, it's so. I saw Roberta Church—one of our sophisticated Seniors—running along behind a Ford V-8 coupe Sunday afternoon. I couldn't quite tell whether she was trying to catch up with the car or the car was trying to get away from her. While we're on the subject of Roberta, did you happen to see her with a rolling pin Monday morning, coming to school? Maggie has nothing on her. We wonder who accepted her Leap Year night?

What is this world coming to? It seems the main amusement of today is playing with paper money, little metal ships and green and red wooden chips. The name they have given to such a game is "Monopoly." I have not as yet "got the hang of it," but I must if I want to be in society.

What a time the girls' basketball squad had at Hornell, especially at Harvey and Carey's. I guess H. & C. thought the insane asylum had broken loose. What was it up in the balcony that attracted the girls more than the basketball game?

Well, Fatiney, what's his name? Howard? I think he's pretty nice myself.

Time and place means nothing to Jean and Billy, who could tell you more about what I mean!

Jo (Butler) what has happened to you? Perhaps someone else could explain better. I'm sorry, but then life must go on you know.

Would some one be so kind as to give Don Edwards a compass? He seems to get rather mixed up on his directions. He starts out for play practice and wakes up to find himself in Wellsville.

Frank, didn't you hear Mr. Bretsch tell you not to carry out all the directions in the play?

I see where Dot Nobles is entertaining a guest this week.

Me, myself and I, all three are signing off with the hope that spring will come from around the corner.

THE SPOTLIGHT

SENIOR INTERVIEWS

What is your full name?—Roberta Ernestine Church.

Where were you born?—Andover.

What is your favorite sport?—Roller skating.

What is your favorite recreation?—Movies.

What subject do you like best?—Drawing.

What books do you like best?—Fiction.

What subject do you dislike most?—French.

What do you intend to do when you finish school?—Attend Alabama State College.

What is your ambition in life?—To become an interior decorator.

Roberta is one of the best guards on the girls' basketball team. She also takes part in the other athletic activities, so one can truthfully point her out as a good sport. She isn't the kind that becomes jealous when one doesn't pass the ball to her. One might distinguish Roberta by her laugh, and also by her "red headed" pal who is always with her.

We all wish her success in becoming an interior decorator.

REPORT CARDS OUT AGAIN!

Last Friday, Feb. 28, marked the end of the fifth marking period. Report cards were handed out Wednesday of this week.

GUESS WHO?

He is an artist, a Sophomore, a humorist and a musician. You can often see the cartoons which he draws both in his books and on pieces of paper. On orchestra nights you hear a lot of noise which is made mostly by him. You can go into the "Soph" room almost any time and hear Mr. Host say: "—, quiet down." Could there possibly be more than one person who follows this description? Who is he?

Answer to last week's Guess Who—Beatrice Sly.

A VISIT TO HOLLAND

When entering the fourth grade room one has the instant impression of suddenly being moved on some sort of magic carpet to Holland.

Instantly one's eye is caught by the pictures and drawings of Dutch people, villages and landscapes that adorn the wall. Suddenly one's interest is centered around a table that has a Dutch farm in miniature. Centered around the traditional canal are the paper houses, a tulip bed, a tree, stones and Dutch people in costume. To make the scene complete there is a boat sailing upon the canal.

On leaving the room one feels that an interesting and educational exhibit has been seen, well worth the time spent.

THE NEWS BOX

Seventh grade isn't as sleepy as they would have us believe from their bulletin board of Rip Van Winkle. The attractive bulletin board features pictures drawn by the seventh graders.

Who would guess that such famous Roman characters are attending Andover High School as Hannibal, Marcus, Brutus, Licinius, Cornelia, and also Cicero and his two daughters Julia and Tullia? There is really no occasion for great excitement in spite of the above facts. The people mentioned are just the names used in place of their own, by the students in first and second year Latin Classes.

The Second Grade has just completed drawing all-over designs for either wallpaper or linoleum. They are attractively colored.

After a final count it was learned that Donald Emery had the greatest number of perfect arithmetic papers in Sixth Grade for the month of February.

The Third Grade is starting the study of shelter. Among other things they will study the different stages of housing and they are going to make a wall panel on the subject.

The Sixth Grade has been studying bar graphs. They have made very neat graphs of 20 arithmetic problems. Also in English they have
