AMBITIONS

What young person in this "age of opportunity" does not have ambitions? We certainly hope of this type of person there are very few.

We should realize that ambitions are the first step to success. Without ambitions the most important factor of our lives is lost.

Oftentimes we hear students who are nearing the close of their high school days say that they don't know what they care to do after these days are over. This may be true, but a great majority of them have thought about what they hope to be some time, and thus they have ambitions. Those of some people are a great deal more than others.

The youth of America today is facing what we have heard many people term as a time of great crisis. We have also heard them say that the young people will have to work harder than those of any other generation in order to succeed in this world. We have also heard others say that now the best opportunities are offered to the modern young person. There are as we know, arguments for both sides, but whichever is true, ambition is the first essential which everyone must have.

Someone has said "there is nothing ambition cannot do." This short phrase contains a great deal of truth which every person starting out in life should realize.

Many have failed because they were unwilling to work to fulfill the ambitions which they may have had, but have allowed themselves to lose interest because of some obstacle which has presented itself. Others have succeeded and won success for themselves by fighting against every handicap which they have had to face. Today's youth has the benefit of profiting by the examples of the latter. They should feel the desire to have ambitions and then strive to fulfill them. —H. Clarke

"I"

The most used word in the world is "I." "I." "I." Everyone first thinks about "I" and then about someone else. Of course, some have this "I" complex more than others. Always the excuse given is: "If I don't look out for myself no one will."

The most commonly spoken and thought questions are "How will it affect me? What will I do?" The outstanding and rare person is the one who says "How will it affect others? What will they do?"

Now everyone answer truthfully, which do we prefer? Of course we say the latter one, but yet we all go on being the former.

Isn't this what the older generation sees in the younger generation? Isn't this their chief criticism of the younger set? One can't say they might have been the same when they were young but the years have taught them that being considerate of others leads to the greatest happiness.

Now, think what a big advantage we younger ones would have if we overcame our "I" complex. Wouldn't everyone be happier and more contented?

FACULTY FACTS

Miss Marjory Ellis spent the week-end at her home in Rochester. Mrs. Ralph Schwarzenbach entertained her mother and brother over the week-end.

Miss Esther Knapp spent the week-end in Rushville and Rochester.

Miss Mary Lou Day was a guest at the delightful Schubert-Beethoven program, presented by the Wellsville Musical Club Tuesday evening in the home of Mrs. George Rosa of Wellsville.

Prin. and Mrs. Glenn E. Bretsch spent the week-end with Mrs. Bretsch's parents in Elmira Heights. William McGee and Lawrence Host accompanied the Keystone basketball players to Warren, Pa., Saturday.

SKITS PRESENTED IN ASSEMBLY

Skits from the Senior play, "Hobgoblin House," were effectively presented in the assembly program at 9 a. m., Friday morning, March 6th and again at 9:30 for the grade children.

Miss Veronica O'Hagan took full charge of the assembly program. Each member of the cast was introduced, after which a scene that would arouse interest was presented from each of the three acts. These well-chosen excerpts showed that the characterizations are especially good and the action exceptionally thrilling.

Bruce McGill and Edwin Alderson, acting as a New York play producer and his secretary, signed the entire cast up to be in a New York production.

There is, therefore, no doubt as to the "taking" qualities of the play and cast.

GIRLS' BASKETBALL TEAM HAS VERY SUCCESSFUL SEASON

The Andover girls squad closed their season a week ago with the Hornell girls on the Andover court. The girls lost only one game, and that was to Hornell girls by one point on the Hornell court. For their last season, the girls' squad had as their coach Mr. McGee, and Regina Lynch as their manager.

THE GIRLS' SQUAD

Basketball is quite a treat. For the girls' squad can't be beat; Take for instance Mary Burns. Who for the ball her heart just yearns.

And now for the center, Marion Swartz.

Who helps to make a part of the fort.

Now there's that side center, Roberta Church.

Who goes after the ball with quite a lurch.

There is also a forward, Bea, Who stops at nothing for victory.

And now for our forward Fotiney Who, at long shots is very "keeney."

Then there is that famous Cook Who thinks the score is quite a book.

We mustn't forget Ida Howland, Who scares the opponents with her scowlin'.

Now for the daring Jessamine Briggs Who fights for her rights like Maggie's "Jiggs."

We have to mention our coach, McGee, Who praises us when a victory we see.

GUESS WHO?

There is a light-haired and light-complexioned chap in the Junior home room. He gets good marks in most (?) everything. He is generally found studying in the 3:30 to 4 period when he isn't out in the hall getting a drink.

He has many friends and has even more now because he has gotten a Junior driving permit. He takes a joke and has a hearty laugh. It has been reported that he is a good cook. I have never eaten any of his cooking or I imagine I wouldn't be here to tell the tale.

He has very nice manners and clean habits, which help to make him a friendly, likeable chap to be with. As an extra, he used to furnish the "Do You Knows" for the Hi Herald, and he lives in the big residential section of Elm Valley.

DON'T FORGET THE SENIOR PLAY

Just one more reminder of the Senior play, "Hobgoblin House," to be presented tonight and tomorrow night in the Andover High School auditorium at 8:15 p. m. Seats in the reserved section are 35c and the other seats are 25c.

A. H. S. LOSES TO WELLSVILLE IN FAST GAME

On Thursday night, Feb. 5th the A. H. S. lost a hard fought contest to Wellsville on the latter's court by a score of 22-18.

Playing a fast brand of ball, the purple team got away to a good lead. Four field goals aided by Fulkerson's four foul shots gave Andover a 12-10 lead over their opponents at the end of the half.

Andover started the scoring in the second half by sinking a foul shot. Soon after this, however, Wellsville managed to break away and take the lead, holding it thru-out the rest of the game.

With the score 20-18 and Andover pressing their opponents' lead, Cannon missed a shot from the free throw line. Upon reclaiming the ball Wellsville scored the last basket, making the final count 22-18.

McGill played a good offensive game, and Lynch played a good defensive game.

SENIOR INTERVIEWS

What is your full name?—Henry Frank Weinbauer.

Where were you born?—Los Angeles, California.

What is your favorite sport?—Volley ball.

What is your favorite recreation?—Reading.

What subject do you like best?—Chemistry.

What books do you like best?—Non-fiction.

What subject do you dislike most?—Latin II.

What do you intend to do when you finish school?—Attend an engineering school in California.

What is your ambition in life?—To be an engineer and bring in the "dough."

Frank is very ambitious and always gets his work done, which brings him the admiration of both teachers and fellow students. Although he is ambitious he has a tendency to putter, and takes his time in doing a thing, but he minds his own business and in this way he is able to accomplish his work.

BOE ZECKELY COLUMN

Dear Boe:
I am just a poor little Senior boy with aspirations for the better things in life. At present they're caused by a girl. I have a part in the Senior play, "Hobgoblin House." There is one girl whom I care a great deal for who plays the part of Marion. Oh! Boe! I have bought her candy in English Class and have really lived my part, which is her lover. She seems to care for me some, and will allow me to walk home with her after play practice. How will I find out if she truly loves me?

—Desperate.

Dear Desperate:

Have courage, my boy, for a "faint heart never won fair lady." It may only be a "school boy affair" or "puppy love." Anyway do not be too hasty and in the meantime see her as often as you can. "Time will tell."

—Desperate.

Yours for advice,

BOE.

!! The Spotlight !!

Hi ho, everybody. You don't know who I am. Well, I'm the person whose visual range is one to stay out of—if possible.

"I'm puttin' on my top hat, straightenin' my white tie, brushin' off my tails." You could have seen this in action if you had been at the assembly Friday morning. We were honored with the presence of Billy DeRose and his secretary, alias B. McGill and Eddie Alderson, who were in dress clothes, collapsible hats and all.

Well, what do you think of the skits presented in assembly? They certainly were! And if there is anyone who saw them who doesn't attend the play—there's something the matter with that person somewhere.

Who is this Peggy about whom Phil Lynch is continually talking? I think I'm safe in saying that she's from Wellsville.

The Seniors might be high in sophistication, but they're certainly low in interclass sport score. I guess maybe they did manage to win the ping pong matches.

"Popeye" the sailor man has nothing on the Girls' Glee Club. They are all going to be "decked out" in sailor dresses some time soon. Of course I don't know whether they can sing as good as "Popeye" can or not, but they'll at least look like "Popeye."

Well, Joe, from the sound of things Friday morning, I dare say the audience didn't think much of your mustache, or maybe they were just wondering who was behind it.

Charlotte Coko reports that she enjoyed herself immensely on the bus last Thursday night. As I was not there, I must ask "Why?" There are a few girls around school who seem to be getting interested in Carl W.

Well, whether the Seniors get any money from their play or not, they will have gotten the satisfaction of the beginning of a new romance. Guess who?

Rain or shine, the Freshmen girls were determined to go to the "Secret Garden" and the Wellsville game last Thursday and so they went in the "bus" seat of Miss Day's car.

Well, Delores, it must have taken some "hustlin'" to get that front seat in the bus before Fotiney and Charlotte did. Head I tell you why that seems to be a favorite seat with the girls?

Well, Maxine (Davis) I see where you're stepping out with one of our alumni students. Good old "Hoim." We all think a lot of "Hoim" so you'd better not break his heart or we'll be right after you.

Beatrice Kruger seems to be rather interested in the G-man. (Right?) So long! I'll see you at the Senior play—in the "Hobgoblin House."

GRADE BRIEFS

The Fifth Grade is starting a new plan to encourage better work. There are a few people in the room who have low averages in some of their work. In order to improve their work, those who have low marks are trying to see which one can bring their own marks up most during the next few weeks period.

At the end of that time the pupil making the greatest improvement in his work will receive a prize.

The First Grade has started a bulletin board of their own. Each day every child brings pictures of interest to him and the class and pastes them on this bulletin board with a sentence to illustrate his work.

OUR TRIP TO ALMOND

By Jean Northrup

Leslie Brundage, Vivian Connors, Bernadine Briggs, Harold Rice, Mr. and Mrs. Joyce and I started out at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon. We went to Pomona Grange at Almond to present our marionette show. This was the longest ride our marionettes had ever had. They enjoyed it very much. Of course because it was such a long first ride, Hiram went to sleep. The play we put on was called "Happiness Ahead," written by Thomas O'Hagan.

The characters were: Marietta Simpson, J. Northrup; Ma. Burns, Bernadine Briggs; Hiram Hopkins, Harold Rice; and Mr. Simon Moneybags, Leslie Brundage.

Everyone liked our show. They said they had heard quite a lot about Marionettes, but had never seen a show put on. We were guests of the Grange for supper, as a reward for our efforts.

March 20th we are going to give our show again on the assembly program.

Bamboos grow to a height of six feet or more in four to six weeks.

IT HAS BEEN SAID THAT—

Ruth Ianson is acquainted with a boy from Fort Niagara.

Fotiney was quite thrilled on the bus last Friday night.

Mr. McGee treated the girls who played basketball last Friday night.

Josephine Butler wanted to invite someone to the party and Dolores had quite a nice time playing records Saturday night.

Marilla sees Walt M. quite a bit lately.

Bea Sly and Roberta Church got a big kick out of a movie magazine Friday night.

Hornell beat the Andover girls by one point.

Charlotte Cook went up to Helen V.'s with Eddie last Sunday evening.

Fern knows a nice boy named "Bill."

Louis Fulkerson has at last become a bridegroom. (At least, he made people think he was at the "Frosh" party.)

Henry A. can mock birds and animals very well. We hear that one of the girls thought Henry's imitations were the best things on the program.

Ida Clair had a very nice banana split and a box of candy last Saturday night.

Thelma has been seeing Jackie Greenan lately. Why don't you pick on someone your own size, Thelma? Have you still got Jackie's bracelet?

Franklin Witter has been to see Katherine Barber several times.

The Seniors are going to have a play.

Spring is just around the corner.

GENIUS IN EMBRYO

(First attempts at writing poetry)

SCHOOL—Hilda Clarke

We are constantly told an education we must get.

But our tellers forget all the pain, worry and fret

That results with our life which is spent in school.

When our teachers scold and on force every rule

A lesson undone, its reward is a zero.

He who has his lesson is thought a great hero

In spite of our errors, mistakes and jokes,

What would we do without our school, folks?

Altho our time and trouble now we regret,

The best of these days we'll never forget.

—A-H-S—

THE WEEK-END—Carl Will

Saturday night was dark and dreary

The air was full of sleet.

A young man sat on the edge of his bed,

His eyes were full of sleep.

Sunday morning he was tired

And hated to get up;

But his father called up the stairs

"Get up, you lazy pup."

Out of bed he jumped and cried,

"Why did you call so soon?"

If I could sleep ten minutes more

Then it would be noon."

—A-H-S—

THE COMPARISON—J. Millspaugh

As the dreary days pass quickly by

Each one sits and wonders why

The sun remains high in the sky—

For merely a while.

In summer when the roses bloom,

And their fragrance fills the room

With memories which dispell all gloom—

Then we smile.

We say "Just wait 'til the robins sing,

And bluebirds fly on beautiful wing

Then it is time for glad bells to ring

Winter is past!

Perhaps now we sit and mournfully wail

That the winter has passed as "slow as a snail,"

We certainly hope of the snow and the hail—

We have seen the last!

ATTENTION, LOYAL STUDENTS!

There will be a contribution box placed in the library next week in which everyone is asked to put articles—news, poems, limericks, humorous happenings or sayings for the paper.

If you should happen to put an editorial in the box, please put your name on it, and state whether or not you want your name to appear, if the editorial is printed.

All suggestions that would make the Hi Herald a better paper will be gratefully received.

"SUBURB FAMILY"

By Josephine Baker

(Second Installment)

Mrs. White broke the silence by telling Joyce to prepare something for supper while she cared for Mr. White. Ted went out and fed the dog, fixed the furnace and fed the few chickens he had raised, but all the time his mind was upset from the recent illness of his father. It was thinking about school. If anything happened he would have to quit school in his last year, with just four more months to complete his work for graduation. That was not all that troubled him. Ted was an excellent basketball player and had completed a most successful season, with one of the best records for the most baskets made in the games for the season.
