ANOTHER LETTER FROM MRS. DEAN

Tells Interestingly of News and Incidents at Ithaca During the Past Few Days.

Mr. Editor:

The weather topic is always a good starter in conversation, and also now in writing, as present conditions make it of paramount interest. After the hard snow bound winter in Ithaca's many suburban villages, they have again suffered from flood waters and ice storms. The surrounding forestry was white and glistening when falling temperature prevailed on the heights above the city. A vast damage followed, with broken telephone and electric poles and lines, many large and valuable trees, especially the fine elms. Cornell's beautiful campus is pictured as a terrible wreckage. With no lights and but few halls having heat, necessitated a vacation of many classes for a couple of days.

Ithaca's low section near the lake and where the fair ground is situated, was inundated and estimated 400 cellars were flooded more or less owing to seepage. City and companies have ten water pumps, which were in continuous demand night and day for many furnace fires were out. The great danger was an overflow from Cayuga Lake, having reached within a few inches of its highest record in 1927, and is the basin for Seneca Lake. Even a high wind would have played havoc with the waves. The airplane runway was still above high water and Mr. Peter's has made many tours of investigation. Both railroad systems had bad washouts, so Ithaca awoke Thursday morning without any outside communication. The city's paper, Ithaca Journal, with a large circulation, without Associated Press news or other news.

A young linotype operator with an amateur set at his home, on which he had gotten a message to Johnston for Cornell the evening before, got busy. First he succeeded in getting Marathon from a station near Albany, and soon again to Rome by amateurs until Associated Press was reached and sent a batch of news from Auburn. Thru the efforts of the Catholic priest, Rev. J. Healy of Geneva, also with an amateur set, a telephone wire was opened to the Times-Union of Rochester from whence the Journal received news bulletins and so put out its paper. Mr. Peterson's set was busy all day, and when a police official, Corporal Kelly was able to put thru an important message to State troopers in Elmira he exclaimed: "What a grand hobby!"

This amateur occurrence reminds me of similar work of an amateur in the picture "Country Doctor" which we recently witnessed. A fierce blizzard had isolated the Canadian hamlet when a bad epidemic of diphtheria prevailed, with stock of serum nearly exhausted. The country doctor resorted to the one amateur who by persistent effort finally got answer to his SOS calls which were relayed, finally reaching Toronto hospital. The serum was sent by plane and the doctor's sick children in the little church-hospital were saved.

Ithaca had dollar days last month and the Journal paid its 67 employees in silver dollars. ordered a month in advance thru the First National Bank; transported from there to the office in three bags under police escort, 2,252 dollars; 132 pounds went into circulation. Receivers felt richer than ever before, for is there not more to a cartwheel than to a wrinkled piece of paper? Forbidden to deposit in banks, they were soon in trade, much to the surprise of dealers, for not one known to be in the city and had no place in the cash registers. Dollar day song theme became "The dollar goes 'round and 'round." A number were bought for pocketpieces and to show the kiddies. This payroll has a big part in the city's business life, being always prompt. There are 106 newboys, 96 correspondents and eleven district men on the force. By a ruling, the boys are taught bookkeeping by collecting and booking each patron's dues of 18 cents for the week each Saturday morning. Then their usual delivery in the evening. Patrons and boys were not very enthusiastic over the plan, but of course spots.
