Timothy Seed

Persons interested in grass seeds have been reading the past few weeks in farm and local papers warnings about the quality of seeds for this year.

Our seed this year was purchased from the same firm from whom we have bought for a long time, and we were promised that we would receive the same high quality we have had in the past.

Our carload arrived last week and these men certainly kept their word good, as the analysis on the bags show only one one-hundredth of one per cent of weed seed and a germination of 92% or better. Clover is also of a comparative high standard.

Come in and talk over your seed needs while we are booking orders at the opening prices.

Rubbish Burners

Soon the snow will be gone and you will need to pick the papers and rubbish from the lawn that has been blown in during the winter.

Why not have a rubbish burner to burn them in and then have it thru the summer for burning papers? They are only one dollar and you wonder how they can be made for that price.

Brush-Nu

Do not discard your old paint brushes just because they are stiff and stuck up with paint. A 10 cent package of Brush-Nu is sufficient to clean five four-inch brushes.

King's Daughters Hold Interesting Meeting

An interesting and unique joint meeting of the members of the afternoon and evening divisions of the King's Daughters of the Presbyterian church was held in the parlors of the church Wednesday evening.

An enjoyable program was presented by the school children under the direction of Mrs. Schwartzbach and Miss Knapp. The outstanding numbers of the evening, however, was the presenting of an amount of money in which the members of the societies had previously agreed to earn toward the electric light fund. Each lady in turn, in presenting their offering, told in rhyme how they earned the amount.

These were very clever and produced much merriment and a goodly sum toward the electric lighting, which is now installed in the church at a great improvement and convenience.

Flood Control Thru Forest Cover

The tragic occurrences of the last few days whereby large portions of the Northeastern United States have been devastated by floods involving destruction of property and loss of life brings attention to the problems of land use and planning, says Professor Frank B. Myers of the New York State College of Forestry at Syracuse University.

In the years past a stupendous task of land clearing was accomplished at the cost of untold labor. In an almost unbelievably short time enormous areas of timber were cleared from the land in the scramble for agriculture, soil and home- steads.

Unfortunately, considerable areas of this land were unfitted for agricultural use either by reason of the character of the soil or the topography. Today, due to lack of water-holding forest cover, there are large areas of unproductive land shedding water at an accelerated rate and contributing to the flood disaster.

Forest cover on these barren hills and slopes would have retarded the melting of the snow and prevented such a rapid run-off of water. These are factors of no mean consideration in flood control.

CALENDAR of COMING EVENTS

March 31.—Hot roast beef sandwich supper at the Grange Hall.

Following careful plans, based on a studied approval of the situation, vast areas of these lands should be reforested as a measure of flood control, and coordinated with any such plan which may be worked out in the future.
