TARDINESS

Late again? Well, what do I care whether I'm late or not? I get to my classes on time. That's all that counts.

But that isn't all that counts. School starts at five minutes of nine and everyone should be in his home room at that time.

If you held a position in any business firm you would find it necessary to be at your post at the right time or the job would be a dream.

I doubt if many of us high school students pay much attention to whether our home-room receives the attendance banner or not. If we did notice, we would find that it hangs just outside the Eighth Grade door about every month. Hats off to the Eighth Graders, who are forming a habit which will be valuable to them thru life. When figuring the averages for the banner awards, tardiness counts off as much as an absence.

The lower grades are drilled to be "on time."

We don't want the graders to outdo us, so why don't we, as high school students, remember to practice what our teachers have faithfully taught us in the grades? There is only one more chance to receive the banner—what are the high school students going to do about it?

ADVERSITY

It is said "What a person refuses to learn, adversity teaches him." An example of this is refusing to recognize the law of gravity, which will cause your downfall. Similarly, if you refuse to recognize the speed law, you'll be "pinched."

These ways of learning are called "adverse." Adversity is a much more harsh and severe way of learning, but with some people that is the only way. Sometimes it may take one knock and sometimes it takes many.

But it is all up to the individual to decide whether they will learn by adversity or by taking advice and profiting by the experience of others.

BEATRICE KRUGER WINS FIRST PRIZE IN LOCAL SPEAKING CONTEST

A special high school assembly was held Tuesday morning, May 12 in the Andover High School gymnasium for the purpose of determining which one of the three speakers chosen last Thursday afternoon, is to represent Andover High School in the Allegany county speaking contest, to take place at Bolivar tonight, May 14th at 8 p. m.

The three girls who spoke and their selections were:

Miss Beatrice Kruger, "Beneath the Make-up," by C. Hensinger.

Miss Marion Swartz, "Old Mother Goose."

Miss Ida Mae Howland, "A Corner on William."

Mrs. R. E. Dronfield, W. G. Pope, District Superintendent and the Rev. A. D. Shepard served as judges. Mr. Pope gave the decision of the judges at the close of the program, announcing Miss Beatrice Kruger the winner.

Miss Kruger received a well-deserved applause from the high school students. Miss Howland and Miss Swartz did very well and likewise received great applause.

Mr. Bretsch expressed the hope that each year would find more students interested in this very beneficial type of contest and that hereafter the local contest might become a community affair.

ANDOVER DEFEATED BY ALFRED COLLEGIANS

The Andover High School baseball team lost a practice game to the Alfred Collegians Tuesday by a 10-2 score. The Alfred team which recently defeated Hornell, was composed of university students, aided by one of the faculty and the football coach. For five innings the local team made a real ball game of it with Alfred holding only a 3 to 2 advantage going into the sixth inning. The college boys scored seven runs in this frame to take the game.

Gerald Paston, pitching in his first game, started for Andover and held the heavy-hitting Collegians to four hits during the first five innings. Tiring in the sixth the visitors began to solve his delivery and Lynch came in to easily retire the college nine the last two innings.

Don Hardy walked twice and doubled once, to lead the Andover team in batting, while Eddie Kemp was outstanding defensively by his play in center field.

SCHOOL TO HOLD EXHIBIT

On next Monday evening, May 18 every window of the Andover High School building will blaze forth in light, welcoming parents and friends of Andover to the first annual school exhibit.

Every room in the building will be open from 7 until 8:30 p. m., and in the rooms will be found projects, displays, and exhibits of the work done by pupils in the various grades and departments thruout the year. Visitors may come and go when they please. Teachers and pupils will be present to greet and direct.

At 8:30 p. m., there will be a program in the high school auditorium, featuring the music organizations, a marionette show by the eighth grade pupils, physical education demonstrations, and the girls' public speaking contest winners.

No charge will be made and all parents are urged to come and bring neighbors and friends. This is a splendid opportunity of meeting the teachers and learning what your school is doing.

BOE ZECKELY COLUMN

Dear Boe:

Recently I was very much interested in a boy from Hornell. He came up steady for a while, but he soon stopped coming to see me. He went out with my girl friends whose friendship he seemed to enjoy more than mine.

Please, Boe, tell me how I can win him back, after my week of weariness.

Sincerely yours,
A Senior Gal.

To a Senior Gal:

I certainly feel sorry for you and your weariness, but I hope you haven't lost any sleep, because it might interfere with your school-work. However, try to forget your friend and make new ones who they say the old friends are like gold. If you cannot forget him, call him up and ask him to your house with a party of friends and maybe something will come of it.

I wish you luck.
Boe Zeckely.

ANDOVER DEFEATS CANASERAGA AT ANDOVER

The Andover purple and white baseball team played well to defeat last year's winners, Canaseraga, by an overwhelming score of 19-6.

The members of the team committed a few errors, but showed good hitting behind the pitching of Lynch. Andover scored two runs in the first inning thru hits by Briggs, Kemp and Alderson, and two walks by McGill and Pease. In the second inning, Andover scored three more runs on one hit by Alderson, two walks by McGill and Kemp and an error by the pitcher.

Canaseraga obtained their first run in the third inning on a hit by Parly and an error on an outfield fly. Andover scored in the third inning on hits by Fulkerson and Joyce. Canaseraga scored again in a triple by Burgett and walks by Briggs and Hardy. Canaseraga scored two runs in the seventh thru a hit by Phillips and walks by Fair-selt and Creig.

ANDOVER'S SECOND TEAM DEFEATED BY GREENWOOD

The Andover High School second team made its first appearance of the year Monday, losing to Greenwood High School in an extra inning contest.

Andover took the lead by tallying five runs in the third inning on a walk to Dolan, hits by Burger, Burgett and Woodruff and two errors. Another was added in the fourth on Dolan's walk and Burger's second hit. Greenwood tied the game in the seventh and won in the eighth by scoring five runs. Burger led the Andover attack with two safe hits and also contributed two nice throws from the outfield.

Defensive features were Woodruff's unassisted double play and Louis Fulkerson's fine stop of a hard hit ball in the sixth inning. Rob Perry and Charles Burgett pitched good ball for Andover. This was the first second team game and at least three more will be played, a return game with the Greenwood team and two with Belmont.

!! The Spotlight !!

Boy, oh, Boy, am I happy? Here 'tis—Spring and everything. Everybody should be smiling—in spite of the fact that Regents are just four weeks away!

Regents aren't going to scare us, are they? No sir, we're going to keep our work up from now on so we won't have anything to be scared about—Ha!

Before I go on with my little bit of gossip, I'd like to congratulate Misses Nobles and Babcock who are the valedictorian and salutatorian, respectively, of the class of '36. It is certainly an honor of which any one might be proud.

Well, Gertrude, the girls sure got excited when they saw you outside of the high school in a spiffy looking car. Let us in on it—who is he? Well, Don Lynch, it certainly isn't Miss Marsh's fault if you don't know the difference between a baseball and a book, is it? She tried her best to tell you in fourth period study hall Wednesday.

So Elbert Cable has been calling on our Bus Driver lately. Keep it up, Elbert, maybe she'll give you a ride in the new V-8 after while.

Well, are all you folks going to come up to the Exhibition Monday night? I'm here to tell you that you're going to miss something if you don't. Besides missing the work done by the students, you'll miss hearing the orchestra and Girls' Glee Club. And the girls are going to wear their new sailor dresses!!!

The Athletic Association appreciated the support of the five couples who attended the dance last Friday night. A vote of thanks goes to Inez Kemp and Bud Healy; Geo. Joyce and Mary Teresa Burns, Joe McAndrew and Marion Swartz, Edwin Kemp and Josephine Butler, Donald Joyce and Gertrude Dean.

If you think there isn't much in this column this week, it's your own fault for not letting me know what happens around school. We still have a Contribution Box, you know!

SCHOOL PLAYGROUND REGULATIONS MADE

Pupils have been asked by Principal Bretsch not to use the playground near the playground apparatus after dark. Parents are also informed that pupils using the apparatus when school is not in session or after 4 o'clock on school days, do so at their own risk.

HOUGHTON MUSIC FESTIVAL, MAY 21, 22, 23

The Fourth Annual Music Festival at Houghton College, Houghton, N. Y., will be held next week, with Chorus Day on Thursday; Orchestra Day on Friday and Band Day on Saturday.

High School musical organizations from the counties of Allegany, Livingston and Wyoming will participate. The morning of each day is given over to individual programs by each of the high school organizations represented, and in the afternoon the entire group will be massed together and will give a public concert, directed by the adjudicator for that day.

The high spot in this year's festival has been the securing of Edwin Franko Goldman, nationally known band leader, as adjudicator and leader for both band and orchestra days. Hollis Dann, noted musician and music writer, has been secured as adjudicator for vocal day.

Andover High School will send the girls' chorus to participate on Thursday and the orchestra on Friday. Volunteer transportation will be asked for.

The public is invited to attend any part or all of the Festival program. An admission charge of 25 cents per person will be made to the grounds each day.

CHARACTER COUNTS

SAYS E. C. HUMPHREY

"Character is the greatest thing in life," was the keynote of the talk given by E. C. Humphrey of the Rochester Business Institute, Rochester, N. Y., in the high school assembly program Thursday morning, May 7th, entitled "Peculiar People."

Mr. Humphrey particularly stressed the importance of people "standing on their own feet," as a means of character development.

GUESS WHO?

They think they're smart
And maybe they are,
Because half of us,
Aren't advanced so far.
But we'll get there too
We all agree,
If we get the books,
And tuition is free
Then maybe we, too
Can wear a ring
And go prancing about
In the halls and sing
Come now people,
Guess Who I mean,
Because I'm sure
These people you've seen!

CLASS HONORS PRESENTED

Dorothy Nobles and June Babcock were given the honors of valedictorian and salutatorian respectively in the assembly program Thursday, May 7th.

Miss Nobles had an average of 82 per cent and Miss Babcock had an average of 85 per cent.

These two honors are the highest scholastic honors that can be obtained for the four years' work in high school.

ANDOVER TO PLAY FRIENDSHIP

Friday at 4:15 on the local diamond, the Purple and White nine will play Friendship.

Those who support the team have noticed a great improvement in the A. H. S. players. There is no reason why the Friendship and Andover game will not be exciting and close.

What the boys really can do will be evident in this game—it will be well worth seeing.

HOW 'M I DOIN'

Continuing the series of aids for social conduct taken from "Common-Sense Conduct and Fundamental Manners for School Students," by J. C. Wright, we offer the following "helps" this week:

Introductions

A few simple rules which will aid you in introductions are:

1. A man is always presented to a woman and a girl to a boy, as "Miss Lee, this is Mr. Jackson."
2. Present young people to older people, and less distinguished people to more distinguished people, as "Miss Smith, may I present my chum, Mary Lee?" or "Dr. White, this is the friend who hiked to New York with me several summers ago."
3. It is courteous to add a few words explaining those introduced to each other, or opening a topic of conversation in which both are interested.
4. Introductions should be given at once in order not to embarrass your friends.
5. When introduced, rise, if the other is an older person, and remain standing until the older person is seated.
6. If you are one of a group that is being introduced, a smile and a bow are sufficient.
7. If you are being introduced to a group, recognize each in turn by a smile and a bow, and if possible a repetition of the name.

Better Food and Lower Cooking Bills

GAS RANGES, TOO, ARE VERY MODERN
—NO MORE POT-WATCHING—
YOU CAN SAVE EVEN WITH YOUR OLD RANGE

By Nell Read
Home Service Advisor, Texas
(From McCall's Magazine)

BETTER food—lower gas bills—more time for ourselves. No matter what our favorite menu may be for food, those three things are certainly the favorite menu of all of us for cooking. And whether we intend to use our old gas range a little longer or are planning to buy a new one, we can have these three wishes if we use all we can of the secrets discovered and gadgets developed by the gas engineers.

More free time? There's a very pleasant gadget for ranges, a specially-designed alarm clock. It keeps accurate tabs on cooking time—which means that you can set it and its executive ring will call you at exactly the second when your cake is baked. When this reminder clock is put to work along with an accurate thermometer, or temperature control, you are freed completely from the bother of anxious and watchful waiting, even for such delicacies as filled cookies, usually rather difficult to bake.

Another time-saving suggestion is: Get the habit of cleaning up spattered or spilled food as you go along. The broiler pan should, of course, be cleaned after each use. In the new ranges, cleaning the oven is easier because the linings of the sides and bottom are removable.

When it comes to saving money on gas bills, there are several things you can do. First, use a low, or simmering, flame as often as you can. Food cooks just as quickly in gently boiling water as in water that is boiling furiously. The simmering unit, which is found in many of the new-type ranges is made so that, with the valve turned to a given position, only enough flame remains to carry on the simmering process. But any burner can be used as a simmering unit simply by turning the flame low as soon as boiling has begun.

Using the right utensils means saving money, and so does making sure that the flame you use them over is properly adjusted. Pans should have flat bottoms and fit the burner exactly—otherwise heat is wasted. And lids should fit tightly to prevent the escape of steam.

If the bottoms of your pans get sooty after you have been using them for top-stove cooking, it may be that the flame of your burner needs adjusting. It should have a clear inner green cone and a clear, outer blue cone. If it is burning with a yellow light, you may be sure that it is costing you extra money and giving poor cooking results.

Sometimes the flame of the gas looks as though it were improperly adjusted when the real trouble is a clogged burner. Every once in a while the burners should be removed from the stove (the construction of the new stoves makes this extra easy) and cleaned—first, with a wire brush to rub off any burned food, and then by holding in a solution of soda and water. They should then be dried in the oven, unless they are of non-rustable material. For aluminum burners, use steel wool or scouring powder, as recommended by the manufacturer. Chromium burners used in some ranges do not require such summary treatment, as they are made of a very hard metal.

Grill Rackers going into the oven ishing preparation—do a fine job.

If you've ever used an old-fashioned range with a poorly-insulated oven, you know how it wastes heat. Modern gas ranges, with properly-insulated ovens are real money savers—and they help keep kitchens cool.

More women are discovering every day how many unusual broiled dishes there are. But not all wives know how to guard broiled meats against getting tough and dry. There is a trick to proper broiling. In the first place, choose tender cuts of meat and have your butcher cut them at least an inch thick. Then—and this has just recently been agreed upon by leading authorities—put your broiling pan about three inches from the flame, or as close to that as the construction of your oven permits.

Some of the latest models in gas ranges have smokeless broilers. In them, the grease runs directly to the bottom of the pan, where it is protected from the flame by some type of metal screen. And have you seen the new ranges with separate broiler compartments? Many women find them more convenient, as they are placed higher on the range. Moreover, they do save fuel, since all the heat from the broiler unit is concentrated in the broiler compartment.

The new gas ranges are well worth going to see, even if you plan to go on for a while longer with the old faithful one. In addition to the new developments mentioned you'll find that they have other such endearing features as shining chromium trim that would spruce up any kitchen; tilt-proof racks of flat wire that allow pans to rest securely... guard rails at the back keep pans from slipping over when the rack is pulled forward.

Buy your new gas range wisely, give it good care, use it intelligently—and you'll have every reason to expect to get your money's worth in shorter cooking hours, lower gas bills and finer tasting food.

PEANUT SQUARES

1 cup sugar
1 cup brown sugar
1 cup melted shortening
1/2 cup salt
1 teaspoon baking powder
Beat eggs, add sugar and shortening, mix well. Stir together brown sugar, salt and salt, add to first mixture. Add vanilla. Chill. Mix peanut butter, honey and salt in a small pan. Roll out dough on a floured surface. Spread with peanut butter mixture. Bake in 350° F. oven for 15 minutes. Cut into squares. Yield 12 squares.
