

Country Correspondence

South Hill

(Mrs. Margaret Dean, Reporter)

May 20.—I am somewhat hesitant in taking up correspondence again, for I feel the dearth of news will make for a dull column. It may seem that way, after a visit in the busy "hub" where the dailies are next to their foods, in fact, are side courses to breakfast. But perhaps we may satisfy "printer's devil" from our burg. No time has been lost in sowing oat crop, which is now finished. The land seems to be under cultivation and little heed has been paid the new AAA by our agriculturists. "Let them alone, and etc." The Rural New Yorker agent is over the hill one day last week, so a calf buyer was a business item.

Billy Dougherty lost a few days' school last week thru illness. Mr. and Mrs. Paul McCormick of dependence called on Mr. and Mrs. H. Dean, Sunday.

Signs are much in evidence of a great damage wrought by last winter's ice storm, especially so in orchards. Maples will not be slow covering, and the smaller fruit trees that escaped have now bravely forth their blossoms. Flowering shrubs are very late here, even the laes.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Daniher of Wellsville spent Sunday guests of their daughters and families.

Mrs. Tony Dougherty attended a card party in Blessed Sacrament parish hall, Andover, last week.

Our people were indeed sorry to hear of the death last week of Peter Lynch of Hornell. It is truly sadening to think of the passing on of one of South Hill's finest and largest families. I say South Hill's, for here they grew to manhood, and here now empty homes attest to their former presence. We miss them in their farm activities and in their frequent passing, and all sympathize with Mrs. Lynch in her bereavement, and also with the family.

High winds accompanied by hail and rain visited this section today. Now lower temperature again, which portends a frost. Weather clerk seems to delight in producing those sudden changes.

West Greenwood

(Miss Margaret Mullen, Reporter)

Several members of the West Greenwood Grange met at the hall Saturday afternoon. The Grange hall and yard surrounding it were cleaned. On Wednesday evening West Union Grange will visit us. At this meeting the Fraternity chain link will be added, on May 27th West Greenwood Grange will visit Banner Grange and present the Fraternity Chain, also a neighbor's night program.

CONVULSIONS in a child is not a disease, but a symptom. Improper eating, fright, constipation or teething may be the cause. A doctor comes quickly when told a child has convulsions. Before he arrives, put the child in a hot bath, not hot enough to burn, and be sure to keep his head above water.

NO satisfactory way has been found to remove tattoo marks. These marks, which many persons later wish they could remove, make an excellent illustration of how a momentary act of foolishness cannot be wiped out in a life time.

In the course of a year the average adult person drinks one ton of water.
