Mrs. Ella Dougherty of Andover a guest at the Dougherty home Sunday, also with Mrs. Tony gherty called on Mrs. Margaret n. harlie Lynch and helpers of And- are now busy on his recently chased South Hill farm. Nothing ventured, nothing gain- "thinks the farmer as he again shall his forces in the potato i. The gain does not compen- for the venture in recent years, with renewed hopes the hard or of planting is accomplished h year. As a good play is repeated thru merits, Editor Marshall's recent icle should be much reprinted or, ter yet, broadcasted. His policy ms always to have been "out with "which" he certainly did in this tance, voicing the ideas of many. Many of our residents visited the flagler home in Andover or at- ded the funeral of the daughter, Ella on Wednesday.

THE GOOSE WOMAN

Here was another shock—to think of Jerry as no longer a boy, but as a man old enough to consider mar- rying. "You can't get married. Who'd marry you, the 'goose woman's son'?" she inquired.

"That's what I am getting at. I don't propose to be known as the 'goose woman's son.' I propose to take you out of this if you'll let me. I propose to have you come and live with us and leave all this behind, if—"

"Then you've picked out the girl?" Gerald nodded. He flushed, and his sensitive, eager face was slowly illuminated, glorified by an expres- sion his mother had never seen in it.

It was an expression, by the way, that caused the years to roll back and remembrance to smite her. He was, for the moment, the living image of his father.

ORVILLE MESLER, Andover, N. Y.

A careful driver approached a railroad—he stopped, looked and lis- tened. All he heard was the car be- hind him crashing into his gas tank.

A lady stopped at the clock count- er. "I want an alarm clock, please," she said. "One that will rouse the maid without waking the whole fam- ily."

"Sorry, madam," replied the sales- man; "I'm afraid we only stock the ordinary kind, which rouses the whole family without waking the maid."

"Do you think I shall live until I'm ninety, doctor?" "How old are you now?" "Forty."

"Do you drink, gamble, smoke or have you any vices of any kind?" "No. I don't drink, I never gam- ble. I loathe smoking; in fact, I haven't any vices."

Well, good heavens, what do you want to live another fifty years for?"

"What are you doing, Marjory?" "I'm writing a letter to Lily Smif."

"But, darling, you don't know how to write."

"That's no diff'ence, mama. Lily don't know how to read."

An attorney of Los Angeles ad- vertised for a chauffeur. Some twenty-odd responded and were be- ing questioned as to qualifications, efficiency and whether married or single. Finally, turning to a negro chap, he said:

"How about you, George, are you married?" Quickly the negro responded. "No sah, boss, no sah. Ah makes mah own livin'."

Tramp: "Would you please 'elp a pore man whose wife is out o' work?"
