Tiny Insects Cause Injury Resembling Shot Holes, But Are Easily Controlled-Attack Wide Variety) of Plants.

A tiny, plump, shiny black insect, exceedingly active and with a hop) that is so characteristic of the movements of a flea as to give it the very appropriate cognomen of "flea bee- J. tle," will soon make its presence felt in vegetable and flower gardens thruout the state, if it is not already active. The insect itself is so small; that it may not be easily recognized, but after a few days in the garden it will make itself known by the riddled appearance of the foliage of the plants on which it feeds.
