More Rate Than People
A single rat does far less harm in a year than one of the larger mammals, such as a lion, tiger or wolf; but the larger mammals of prey are comparatively few in number, while rats are exceedingly abundant. North Amertea, or any other continent, has probably as many rats as people possibly two or three times as many. The de-struction wrought by this vast horde of rodents is far greater than that wrought by ilons, tigers, wolves and all other noxious mammals together.

Africans Hunt Elephant

for His Meat and Tusks The African natives bunt the ele-phant for his meat as well as his tusks. Their method is to lay pits in the elephant paths in the forest; but while these are sometimes effective the animal is more frequently intelligent enough to avoid the traps.

enough to avoid the traps.

Big and clumsy as they appear the elephant's feet are peculiarly sensitive, and even the best camouflaged pit will not deceive the older animals. They have no special keenness of vision and, as a matter of fact, are much less gifted that way than man.

Another method employed by the natives is to set poisoned spears in the tives is to set poisoned spears in the path of the animals, so that they will fall and pierce them when a trailing vine root is touched. The poison is a vegetable one peculiar to Africa and very powerful, but does not affect the meat. The portion immediately around the spear wound is cut out and thrown away; the rest of the meat is taken to the village to make a feast. What is left over after the feast is preserved by drying in the sun.
