THERE'S MUSIC IN THE AIR

That statement is very true. When we're out in the woods or even at our own homes, we can hear the songs of birds, the rippling of the streams and the singing of the wind thru the leaves. Many sounds of nature are musical.

In this way there has been music since the world began. When man came to earth, he used his hands to beat a rudely made drum of a hollowed log covered with hides. With that as a beginning for our musical instruments, man has improved them and made more until now we have hundreds of different instruments. Most of them unfamiliar are unfamiliar to us. There are only about 20 common instruments which are played either in orchestras or bands.

In a band both percussion and reed instruments are played but not string instruments. Sousa was at one time the greatest band leader. At the present time, however, Dr. Franko Goldman is the most famous in this country.

WHO'S WHO

Andover High School possesses some good citizens of the type that any school should be proud to count as members of the student body.

These students may not be basketball heroes, the most popular in school, or the ones who cause the most comment among their admirers. Although it is true some of them may. Perhaps their names are not among the highest on the honor roll. However, those who are being referred to are those who work away at an even rate of speed, put forth a reasonable amount of effort, earn honestly the credit which they do gain, and are in general examples of good A. H. S. citizens.

There are in our school many such persons and in this column quite often will be found examples of A. H. S. co-operative citizenship, who deserve a great deal of credit. This week's Good Citizen never comes to a class without having at least made an attempt to prepare her lessons. Whenever there is an activity to be supported, she is among the first to volunteer. Any task assigned to her finds her willing. She is apparently "happy-go-lucky" yet can shoulder responsibility as her record shows. During her Freshman and Sophomore years she "guarded" faithfully on the girls' basketball team. In her Junior year she took the responsibility of managing the girls' basketball team and did her work well.

She thoroughly henpecked P. Crandall in "And It Rained," a recent A. H. S. operetta. The junior class would have been at a loss when "The Arrival of Kitty" was being worked up, if they hadn't had this go-getter chairman of the advertising committee.

She played fully as important a role as any member of the cast and deserves much credit.

Besides the above, she has been found ready to donate her services when the gymnasium needed decorating or for any other such work.

This girl is also a very active Hi Herald member who is especially fond of writing the "Humor" column. Her name is Regina Lynch.

GYMNASIUM REFINISHED

During the summer months the gymnasium of Andover High School underwent a much-needed refinishing process. The sanding of the floor, in addition to the paint on both the floor and the walls have greatly improved the auditorium's appearance.

It is sincerely hoped that the students will appreciate the work that has been done and strive to keep it in a condition so fine that the townspeople who enter the gymnasium will look upon it with a glow of pride.

Other improvements include the refinishing of the desk tops and the addition of new curtains in the grades; painting done in the entrance hall and basements, and shelving added to the various storage rooms.

In the high school library new storage cupboards were installed. The latter have greatly improved the appearance of the library and will prove to be a great help in library work as there is no room where materials and books can be stored before being prepared for circulation or awaiting repairs.

MOVIE NEWS

Attention, movie fans! The movie "Anthony Adverse," is being shown on the screen of the local theatre. This movie possesses great literary value and has been acclaimed by movie critics as a fine production to be seen by every member of the family.

Altho the story has been changed somewhat to meet the approval of the board of censors, it still portrays the life during the time of the French and English wars in a vivid and fascinating way.

An entirely different picture, with the scene laid in America at about the same time of "Anthony Adverse," is "The Last of the Mohicans," now on its way.

"The Last of the Mohicans" written by James Fenimore Cooper, is an exciting story concerning the French and Indian war in America. This conflict made immortal by Mr. Cooper is one which is so often overlooked by historians. The capture of Fort William Henry and the subsequent massacre are the incidents which form the historical basis for the story.

The author, James Fenimore Cooper, belongs among the world's great romantics, with Scott, Dumas, Hugo and Stevenson. Cooper was born in Burlington, N. J., in 1789. He was taken at an early age to his parents' estate at Otsego Lake, N. Y.—today still called Cooperstown. Here he became greatly interested in searching out old Indian trails, and listening to tales of the more savage day from which he gained incentive for his writings.

His writing began with a challenge made by his wife, that he could write a better novel than the one he had just finished reading. Accepting her challenge, he began his career as an author. Then came the "Leather Stocking Tales" of which "The Last of the Mohicans" which is considered his greatest novel.

The long and boring conversations in the book are replaced by terse dialogue in the photoplay. The vast forests and beautifully rippling streams are arresting and powerful in their influence on the screen.

Anyone wishing to read further concerning this marvelous production may do so in the "Photoplay Studies," a pamphlet to be found in the library. This pamphlet also contains interesting photos taken from the novice.

STAFF MEETING TO BE HELD

There will be a meeting for those who wish to be members of the Hi-Herald staff at 12:55 P.M. Friday in the Andover High School library.

In order to maintain the standard which has been set for the school paper, it will be necessary to have a much larger staff, because after all the Hi-Herald is the paper of the high school student body—not just the few who are conscientious enough to do a little extra work besides their regular schedule.

The boys, particularly should be interested in the Hi-Herald work as it is an aid in developing better writing ability as well as a certain amount of responsibility. It requires just as much "brain power" to work on the Hi-Herald staff for one year as it does to be a basketball or baseball hero for five months and will be as great benefit to him after his school days.

The managing editors of most good papers are men. The Hi-Herald staff has need of a few good men, as well as girls, with brains.

If the student body does not wish a school paper in which they may read the school news they need not support the paper. But the townspeople are very much more pleased with students who can show their ability by putting out an authentic and truly good paper each week. Their interest is partly maintained in the pupils through the articles written about them in the weekly edition of the "Hi-Herald."

There is certainly reason for a large attendance at the staff meeting on Friday. The good will of those who are furthering our education should not be lost.

TONGUE TWISTER

A. H. S. students, especially those who frequent the English Classes are challenged to improve their diction and enunciation thusly:

A tree toad loved a she toad
That lived in a leafy tree;
She was a three-toed tree toad
But a two-toad toad was he.
That two-toad tree toad tried to win
The she toad's friendly nod;
For the two-toed tree toad adored
The ground
That the three-toed she tree toad trod.

Vainly the two-toed tree toad tried,
He couldn't please her whim;
In her tree toad bower with her three-toed power
That she toad vetoed him.

Lester R.: "Well, I see by the paper that Clifford Burdick is married."

Cleon P.: "Good! I'm glad to hear it! I never did like that guy."

Mary G.: "How do you pronounce c-a-d-e-t?"

Miss Day: "Cadet."

Fotiney: "I like the sound of that word, don't you, Miss Day?"

Miss Day: "Yes, Fotiney, I certainly do."

Terms Roosevelt "A Mental Giant"

Mark Graves, former Allegany county resident, now president of the New York State Tax Commission, in urging the re-election of President Franklin D. Roosevelt in a recent address, termed the President "a mental giant," as compared with the Republican candidate, who he likened to a "grade school pupil."

Mr. Graves, who has every advantage of understanding the workings of the projects now in force, maintains that "it depends upon the social and fair mindedness of the individual whether or not they agree with the president in this program."

Wayne Gas Field Gone Dry

The Wayne "gas field," which was humming five years ago, is now a sad dream. The wells are capped and the pipe lines taken up. The Steuben Courier of last week, in referring to the field says that the "sweet" gas yielded in the field developed "sour" characteristics.

The Tyrone field, however, which produces a gas that has to be treated to remove a sulphur substance, is still producing and is expected to produce for some years.

HOW THE HEART IS OVERLOADED

We are still confronted with statements that heart diseases are on the increase. Look over the column in the big city papers and note the causes of death—the list of fatalities, I mean. There were ten deaths recorded in my neighbor metropolis yesterday, most of them were in the early fifties; "heart disease" took most of them.

You are positively guilty of every crime against your heart, ignorant, it may be, but with results just the same; ignorance of the law does not excuse the violator—he must pay the penalty in full.

Two chief causes are notable in affections of the heart—infections and overloading. A neglected throat is almost sure to send a swarm of bacteria to the heart muscle. Attend to your throat right now, if it is affected. Influenza, rheumatism, tonsillitis—all of them menace the heart no matter how mild they may appear; get your physician's advice frequently.

Overloading the heart is inexcusable on your part. How do you do it? First, by over-eating and unnecessary stimulation. The heart keeps all fluid elements in the body in motion; if you overeat, excess fluid and juices are absorbed for the heart to keep circulating thru the channels provided. When you are short of breath after eating, you are crowding your heart. It may be gases in the stomach, from indigestion that oppress the heart—a warning you must heed if you value life. These heart disease cases could have—two-thirds of them—been prevented.
