EDITORIAL OUR SCHOOL LIBRARY

I wonder how many of us could really explain how our school library should actually be used and of what good it is to us.

Many of us use it just to help us secure information for our homework. A few of us are inclined to use it as a rendezvous with our friends.

We should really think of our library as a place in which to widen our field of knowledge. We should go there with the idea of wanting to educate ourselves (as Andrew Carnegie and others have) a little more than is possible just in our daily school work.

"That book is too dry," is heard too often around the school. We should learn to like that sort of book even if it does seem a little hard, for in reading we learn of the various kinds of life in our own times and those of the fascinating past.

We can be totally assured that all of the books cannot be thus criticized, since many new books have been secured for us in the last year or so.

Let us try to enjoy our library in the way it is supposed to be enjoyed. There are fun, love, adventure and exploration, as well as the secrets of the lives of great people tucked away on those library shelves; and treasures untold. Go and dig some of it out—it will be worth the time it takes.

EDITORIAL

For many years before the advent of established education, each person necessarily acquired what knowledge he possessed by himself.

Knowledge, at that time, was the result of first hand observation and experience. As a consequence, each individual was taught by experience to think for himself, to profit from his experience and the knowledge gained thereby.

Today, with schools and colleges an established part of our social system, knowledge is gained vicariously thru the medium of books. Such knowledge, however, defeats its own purposes, for the most part, by discouraging thought, due, no doubt, to the fact that the knowledge dispensed by the schools is considered more as an end in itself rather than as a means to an end. Such knowledge should, as it was originally meant to do, serve as an incentive toward the acquisition of more knowledge by each person delving deeper into each subject as he goes thru life.

The blame for such a result must necessarily lie in one or all of three places—either the educational system, which usually bears the brunt of the blame—the instructors, or the students themselves. While the educational system, being a compromise, undoubtedly has its faults, and the instructors, being products of the educational trend of past years, are far from perfect, the students have in their power the means to change these conditions for the better. By taking a greater interest in their lessons, by trying to use what they are taught in their everyday life, and by treating what they are taught not as cold facts, but as something which is living and vital, and having a bearing on themselves as human beings, the students can make greater use of their mental powers, thereby making not only their school life but also their later life more productive, more satisfying and more interesting.—L.E.H.

CLUBS FORMED

The English III. and IV. classes have elected officers for an "Oral Club," for the coming year. Club day for each class will be Thursday and Friday respectively.

Each week will be devoted to a different topic, for example "Science" was last week's topic in English III. and "Travel" in English IV.

The officers for each club are as follows:
English III.—President, Charles Burgett; Secretary, William Adams; Treasurer, Raymond Raymond; Secretary, Beatrice Kruger.

English IV.—President, Charles Burgett; Secretary, William Adams; Treasurer, Raymond Raymond; Secretary, Beatrice Kruger.

STAFF MEETING HELD

FRIDAY WELL ATTENDED

Friday afternoon at 1 o'clock in the library was the meeting place for 23 students, four of whom were boys whose school spirit was appreciated by both Andover High School and the editor, who became members of the Hi Herald staff.

Miss Day talked to the students concerning the paper and the material to be contained therein, as well as the work expected of the writers. The following students were present at this meeting:

Sophomores—Edna Honegger, Ida Clair, Sybil Winchell, Josephine Butler, Veronica Lynch, Catherine Lynch, Bethel Millsaugh, Laura Backus, Charlotte Cook, George Joyce.

Juniors—Charlotte Coryell, Marion Swartz, Helen Dean, Katherine Barber.

Seniors—Beatrice Kruger, Doris Honegger, Ida Mae Howland, Regina Lynch, Hilda Clarke, Bruce McGill, Orville Mesler, Leo Fulkerson.

ACROSS THE PRINCIPAL'S DESK

I am very happy to write for the Hi Herald from my very busy and, unfortunately, rather disarranged desk, and this first message I am addressing to the boys and girls and particularly those in high school.

Most of you are taking what we consider a regular schedule of work, which in high school means four subjects. For some of you the preparing of these lessons will take all of your study periods and some work at home. For others, there will be time left after all lesson preparations are done. I am thinking particularly of some Seniors and post graduates who are taking only two or three subjects. What will you do with this time?

There is so much of education that is obtained outside of books and the classroom that I feel very heavily the responsibility that falls upon me of planning a program that takes into account this other type of education. I have been well satisfied during the past two years with the achievement that you people have made in scholarship, and, of course, scholarship is the basis of any worthwhile educational plan. This year I am hoping we may again have a good scholarship record and at the same time find a great many more pupils participating in extra-curricular activities, for it is in these activities that we develop latent talents, learn to make the right type of personal contacts, and gain a comprehension of what can be accomplished by effort, practice, and co-operation.

And, of course, I do not mean just athletics. Debates, dramatics, public speaking, music, art, clubs, assembly programs, Hi Herald, library, class annual—these are the activities that I want you to turn your efforts to when class lessons are finished. The reward for such efforts is great and can be measured both in the present and in the future. Make it your aim this year to participate in at least two of these activities.

HUMOR

Miss O'Connell: "Leo, can you tell me what the 'Mayflower Compact' was?"

Leo Baker: "A vanity case."

"Newer and better books," is Carol Burdick's motto. He has suggested that our library be equipped with such books as "Cold Weather" by Tiz. Zero.

"Coffee Hag," by Instant Postum; "Better Drinks" by Salady Tea; "Ship-Wrecked," by I. C. Danger.

Miss Killigrew (in Economic Geography class): "Will someone tell me something which is water proof?"

Green Frosh: "I know, teachers; a rubber plant."

The funny part of the column will be that there won't be a "Funny" column at all if the students don't make their contributions to it thru that mysterious medium, "The Contribution Box." Come on and participate with that "juicy bit" you heard in class or in the hall and let's all "laugh it off."
