POULTRY FEEDING COURSE OFFERED

Three-Day Study Begins October 27 at the State College of Agriculture.

Because of the relatively high cost of grain and of other feeds, Cornell's third annual poultry feeding school, October 27 to 29, is said to come at a fortunate time this year. Studies at the college have shown that, over a period of years, feed costs make up 50 per cent or more of all costs of keeping poultry.

The school offers new facts and ideas to help poultrymen to feed their hens better and to save money. Information about this three-day course may be had from the poultry department at Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.

Daily lectures and discussions are on the program, and all persons have a chance to take part. On the staff of instruction are members of the poultry department at Cornell, R. M. Bethke of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station, and J. E. Hunter of Pennsylvania State College.

A few of the subjects to be discussed during the three-day period include: Some field problems in feeding poultry; new information on the nature of vitamin D and its application to poultry feeding; research in animal nutrition at Cornell; feeding management during the pullet year; feeding growing chicks; what to consider in changing rations to meet price changes; the influence of the breeder ration on the hatching of eggs and vitality of chicks; and the poultry situation and outlook with special reference to poultry feed materials.

Greenwood Masonic Club to Sponsor Indoor Fair

Plans are well under way for the big indoor fair, sponsored by the Masonic Club, to be held in the Masonic hall at Greenwood five nights, starting October 6th to October 10 inclusive.

Many features are being planned for the big event, in addition to the fair proper, there will be stage shows, contests, and midway parades. Dancing each evening will be another feature.

The committee in charge is Orville Matthews, chairman, John Kreiger, Leonard Dennis, Jerry Bard, Edward Scribner, Archie Stephens, Denzel Freeland, Fred Miner and John Williamson.

Farr, at her home in Belmont.

Sept. 22.—Carl Grover, 46, of Genesee, Pa., died suddenly from a heart attack. Surviving is his wife, Eva Lewis Grover.

Sept. 27.—Mrs. Grace Morley Tapping of Rexville, in St. James Mercy hospital.

Sept. 29.—Theodore C. Kane, 72 at his home in Wellsville. Mr. Kane had been prominent in Wellsville affairs, being street commissioner for eleven years. Surviving are his wife, a son and a daughter.

Sept. 30.—Owen S. Gorman, 72, at his home on Pixley Hill. Surviving are his wife and one daughter.

Ford Broadcasts World Series

For the third successive year, all games of the 1936 World Series will be broadcast under sponsorship of the Ford Motor Company. The reports, bringing to millions of fans all over the United States all the crowd color and the play-by-play descriptions of the greatest annual sports event in the country, will be broadcast over the Columbia, National and Mutual systems. The reports will start at 1:15 p. m., E. S. T., one-quarter hour before game time.

Leading radio sports known to baseball fans the country over have been selected to give the play-by-play reports, while nationally known radio news commentators will describe the colorful scenes before game time as the crowds gather, the clowns cavort and the teams go thru batting and fielding practice.

Boake Carter, famed radio news commentator, will give the "color" report for Columbia. It will be Carter's second appearance before the microphone at the World Series. Last year he led off the report for NBC. Warren Brown, sports editor of the Chicago Herald and Examiner and rated as one of the best posted men in sports writing, will describe the scene for National Broadcasting Co.

France Laux, sport announcer for KMOX, St. Louis and Bill Dyer, who holds the same job with station WIP, Philadelphia, will give the play-by-play report for Columbia. The NBC team will be Ty Tyson, popular sports reporter for the Detroit News and Tom Manning of WTAM, Cleveland. Laux and Tyson are veterans of last year's series broadcast, while Manning served on the NBC team two years ago.

The Mutual crew of announcers will be Gabriel Heatter of station WOR, Newark, N. J., and Bob Elson of the Chicago Tribune station WGN. Heatter, who gained national attention in his radio reports of the Hauptmann case, will give the "color" report for Mutual, while Elson, a veteran of last year's broadcasts, will give the game details.

Nearly 90 per cent of the 728,000 square miles of cattle tie infested land in the south has been rid of the pests since the government began its efforts twenty-seven years ago.
