 a special effort to be present on Sunday? A new presentation will be made of the subjects for the next three months. Subjects which all will want to use and enjoy.

We ask that every subscriber shall respond to the canvassers, as they solicit the pledges for the coming year. See what a little more on the pledge will mean on the whole income for the year.

PRESBYTERIAN

Rev. R. E. Dronsfield, Pastor

"Loyalty Day"

"Tell me what that man is loyal to and I'll tell you what he is."
 What are your loyalties? Do the church and its message have a place among them? If you knew that your failure to attend its services would mean its decay, would you yet stay away?

Morning Worship—"Loyalty Day" Service, 10:30 o'clock. Sermon:
 "Believing and Beliefs."

Immediately after the service of worship the "Loyalty Day" dinner will be served in the church parlors.
 There will be no Sunday school, but the members of the Sunday School are urged to come for dinner. In order to make dinner preparations as simple as possible everyone (or family) is asked to bring sandwiches and one other article of food. There will be a program at dinner. Everyone is urged to come and bring his friends. Let us make it a day of worship, of fellowship, of repeding our loyalty to the church we love!

Thursday—The choir will hold an especially important choir practice at 7 o'clock in order to prepare for the "Loyalty Day" service.

Sunday School Lesson

By REV. CHARLES E. DUNN

The Spoken and the Written Word.

Lesson for Oct. 18—Acts 17:1-15.

Golden Text: Hebrews 4:12.

From Philippi, Paul and his companions traveled westward to Thessalonica, the capital of Macedonia, an important commercial and political center with a fine harbor. Here Paul found a fine response amongst the devout Greeks. The Jews, however, obstinately stirred up trouble by gathering a mob and assaulting the home of Jason, Paul's host.

Paul's letters to the Thessalonians the earliest books of our New Testament, make it clear that his success in their city, despite the interruption of persecution, was very great. How fond he was of them!
 "Ye are our glory and joy," he says (1 Thess. 2:20). And he speaks of their Christian faith as everywhere known (1 Thess. 1:8). Furthermore he gives them wise, cheerful and sensible counsel.

But the risk of injury was so real that the Christians of Thessalonica sent Paul and Silas by night to Berea where the apostle preached with marked power. Upon learning of his successful heralding of the gospel message, the hostile Jews of Thessalonica went to Berea, stirred up the people, and abruptly ended Paul's visit. Again we note that the apostle found his stiffest opposition at the hands of his own people. The God-fearing Gentiles, however, rallied to him with eagerness.

This Gentile conquest makes Paul peculiarly appealing to our modern world, for the typical man of the 20th century is more at home in Greek than in Jewish patterns of thought. Nevertheless we must remember that the apostle never lost his Jewish accent and temper. It is the glory of his teaching that he combines the Hebrew emphasis on righteousness with the Gentile stress on truth. "Prove all things," he wrote to the Thessalonians. There you have an echo of Greek scepticism. But in the very next breath he adds, "Hold fast that which is good." Here we find that insistence upon right living so characteristic of Jewish thought.
