Thanksgiving In 1936

Thanksgiving this year finds America with much for which can rejoice. We are at peace with the world and further from entanglements than almost any other nation.

The emergency of the depression is past. Unemployment rolls have fallen to probably less than 4,000,000. Manufacturing empleyment is almost back to the 1929 level. Payrolls have risen steadily and many of the 18,000,000 shareholders in America's great industries are receiving their first dividends in years. President Recesevelt is able to report "the return of prosperity has restored hope to citizens in all parts of the country.'

Best of all, we can reflect upon this Thanksgiving day that America has avoided the pitfalls of other countries. While the post-war depressions have drawn all other peoples into the quicksand of tyranny, we in this country have stood firm on our liberties Depressions have always been a welcome vehicle for the demagogue, the agitator, the false prophet. Even with prosperity returning, khere will be those who will look backward and insist upon their quack remedies for an emergency that is no longer with us. But it is inconceivable that after battling upward out of the valley of the depression for six years America will surrender any part of its liberty with the goal in sight.
