Not So Bad

The traffic situation in Hornell is finally settled on, isn't so bad as painted. Following the meeting of the Hornell merchants and "city dads," the set-up is about the same as it was before, only they are going to enforce the rules. The parking limit was put back to two hours on the business block on Main street, the park and ends of Main street are unrestricted. A few minor no parking zones have been added to relieve congestion at various points, but these are well marked.
