I times, even with firemen, some of the boys will take it for granted that it is just another prank and so may go back to sleep, and perhaps the help of the one or two extra men may mean nothing at all of the saving of more than one life.

A FELLOW pulled a good one on ius the other day when he asked the following question: "A man went fishing in Spi-Lake at 5 p. m., Friday afternoon

| What was his name?" After pondering over it we gave up and the fellow answered: "His name was Smith." Asked how come --he casually informed us that the fellow's father's name was Smith Bright people!

AND speaking of bright people, it came to our ears the other day about the good one pulled on the police department of a nearby city. Seem. ingly the driver of the car got, well slightly under the weather and park. ed his buggy right in front of a fire plug and wandered away. After being gone for several hours he came back and lo and behold there was a nice little tag on said buggy.
