WASTINGS

"Wandering Willie"

"ERNIE" Higby is getting more popular every day, and the faster he gets the looms and other equipment hooked up down at the mill, the more popular he gets. Every time he walks down the street about a dozen or more people will ask him how things are coming down there, how many this and that are ready, etc., and all in all folks in general are all curious. According to Ernie it won't be long now as things are nearly done and all ready for the grand opening.

MANY were the envious glances cast in the direction of Louie Hyde last Friday night when he calmly strutted away with the wettest prize of the evening at the firemen's card party. We don't know whether he still has the prize or not but if he has we'll take a run over and see him.

IT wouldn't be a bad idea for the motorists of Andover to make sure the road is clear of children sliding down hill on South Main street and East Avenue, as they come down both hills at sixty per. A little caution on the part of the driver particularly at these two spots would perhaps save some broken bones.
