Belmont Boy Injured In Fall From Car

"Dickie," seven-year-old son of Lou L. Burton, County 4-H Agent, is in an Oswego hospital suffering a fractured skull, the result of an unusual auto accident Sunday evening. The child was riding in an automobile with his parents, opened what he thought was a window to throw out a banana peel, but instead he took hold of the wrong handle and opened the door. He fell to the pavement, striking on his head. His condition is reported as serious.

GRANGE NEWS

Edith M. Thorne, Lecturer

Grange folks generally take their work seriously, so when there is a program of work or play to be put across, everyone tries to do his bit.

There are many important things coming right along in Grange work, so everyone should come to Grange April 27th to see how he can best help.

The New York State Grange, in order to fittingly commemorate the 150th anniversary of the signing of the ratification of the Constitution during the time set aside for that purpose by the President of the United States of America decided to make neighbors night deal with the Constitution. Each county has its own itinerary. Bolivar Grange comes to Andover April 27, putting on such a program. They will also put on a short pageant, "The Founding of the Grange." Surely every Granger will want to give Bolivar a glad hand.

May 4th, Andover will put on a program in Friendship Grange. May 9th the Tri-county Meet at Dansville—Andover will put on a tableau at this meeting. May 11, the deputies will score both Granges. Surely the co-operation of every Patron of Husbandry is needed to put across such a program of activities.

Cannibalism among chicks is largely caused by lack of something to do, by over-crowded houses, or by hunger.

WAFTINGS

from "Wandering Willie"

WE'LL have to take our hats off to Prin. Glenn E. Bretsch who answered our SOS and settled the "wiener" business once and for all—alho he made us go in reverse in the spelling of the word.

After perusing several dictionaries and other books and being unable to find the blooming thing ourselves we gave it up and "Prof" went to work himself. The only dictionary carrying the word was the Winston Simplified Spelling Dictionary which gave the word along with other English-spelled words of foreign origin and it was all too plainly spelled w-i-e-n-e-r.

Then not satisfied with just the finding of the right way to spell it, he went relentlessly on and in the World Book Encyclopedia he found the definition of the word and its origin. The Wienerwurst, which it is called by American delicatessens, is made in Austria and called the Vienna sausage. They are small sausages of raw pork and beef, well smoked, and are eaten hot.

Now to add the finishing touches to the whole affair as far as we are concerned, we'll admit, alas, we'll have to confess, that we've been spelling the word wrong these many years, and the only consolation we have is that the rest of the printers have been doing the same.

We weren't going to mention that Ernie Andrus was right and had the laugh on us but we'll confess that too. So to "Willie" Lang our parting admonition is that if there are any more words that come up in an argument down on Rochambeau avenue we hope he keeps them down that way and say nothing to us about them at all!

WITH warmer weather and better fishing, the poem "Out Fishin'" by Edgar Guest, gives one a lot of food for thought. We thought it did anyhow, and hand it to you:

Out Fishin'

A feller isn't thinkin' mean—out fishin'
 His thoughts are mostly good and clean—out fishin'.
 He does not knock his fellowmen, or harbor any grudges then.
 A feller's at his finest when—out fishin'.

A feller's glad to be a friend—out fishin'.
 A helpin' hand he'll always lend—out fishin'.
 The brotherhood of rod and line an' sky an' stream is always fine

Men come real close to God's design—out fishin'.

A feller isn't plotting schemes—out fishin'.
 He's only busy with his dreams—out fishin'.
 His livery is a coat of tan; his creed—to do the best he can;
 A feller's always mostly man—out fishin'.

LOCAL Odd Fellows are trying to figure out just why a band director of long standing absolutely refuses to be a chorus leader. They coaxed and pleaded for Archie to sing but nothing doing. So they had to do without a chorus in the third degree Tuesday night. We are sure you can sing, A. L., and perhaps in the future may have a chance to hear a bit of melody.
