Pasture and Soil Erosion Tour

Belmont, June 29.—The Allegany county Farm Bureau has scheduled a pasture and field crops tour for Tuesday, July 9. The group will assemble at 10:30 a. m. (Daylight Saving Time) on the farm of Paul Stowell and Son at Belmont.

The main points of interest at the Stowell farm will be their Wild Birdfoot Trefoil, a contour strip-cropping system and fertilizer demonstrations. Other stops will be at the farms of Dr. Dana Scutt of Cuba, where good pasture management and fertilization practices are being used.

In the afternoon at approximately 1:30 the group will visit Glenn Talbott, whose farm is on Dutch Hill out of Fillmore. Contour strips and diversion ditches are being put into use to control erosion on the Talbott farm. Some improved pastures on Chris Smith's farm which is also on Dutch Hill will be visited next, and the last stop will be at Mrs. Roy Snider's, toward Rosburg from Fillmore. The Sniders are using several methods of pasture improvement and are raising double-cross seed corn.

Professor E. VanAlstine from Cornell will be present to discuss the various practices used. Everyone is welcome to attend at any or all of the different stops. There will be many interesting and instructive points shown.

How One Woman Lost 20 Pounds of FAT

Lost Her Prominent Hips
Lost Her Double Chin
Lost Her Sluggishness

Gained a More Shapely Figure and the Increase in Physical Vigor and Vivaciousness Which So Often Comes With Excess Fat Reduction.

Thousands of women are getting fat and losing their appeal just because they do not know what to do.

Why not be smart — do what thousands of women have done to get off pounds of unwanted fat. Take a half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water first thing every morning to gently activate liver, bowels and kidneys — cut down your caloric intake — eat wisely and satisfactorily — there need never be a hungry moment!

Keep this plan up for 30 days. Then weigh yourself and see if you haven't lost pounds of ugly fat. Just see if this doesn't prove to be the surprise of your life and make you feel like shouting the good news to other fat people. And best of all — a jar of Kruschen that will last you for 4 weeks costs but little. If not joyfully satisfied — money back.

DISH FOR THIS WEEK

Cold puddings are especially welcomed on hot days; this one uses eggs, milk, and cottage cheese and is delicious served cold.

Cottage-Cheese Pudding
2 eggs
2 cups of cottage cheese.
Two-thirds cup of milk.
One-third cup of sugar.
1 tablespoon of lemon juice.
One-half teaspoon of grated lemon rind.

Beat the eggs slightly and combine them with all the other ingredients until they are well blended. Pour the mixture into a medium-sized greased casserole, and place it in a pan of hot water. Bake the pudding in a slow oven (300 degrees Fahrenheit) for about 70 minutes. Serve the pudding cold.

Suggested Menu
Hot vegetable casserole, cold meat, radishes and celery, muffins or biscuits, hot or cold coffee or tea, milk at least for the children, and cottage cheese pudding.

Homespun Yarn

In canning meats and vegetables other than tomatoes, the steam pressure canner is essential.

More than any other single food, milk supplies the essentials for good nourishment.

New plantings of strawberries should be well seeded, for next year's yield is in the making now.

The practice of chopping hay as it is stored has increased rapidly during the past few years. The hay should be somewhat drier than when it is stored loose.

LITTLE BITS OF HUMOR

Sitter: "How much will half a dozen photographs cost; and a dozen?"
Photographer: "We will discuss that afterward; just now I want you to look pleasant."

Her Father: "So you desire to become my son-in-law?"
Her Lover: "Well, I er, not exactly. Of course, if I marry your daughter, I—er, ah—don't see how I can get out of it."

Police Sergeant: "What, you back again?"
Drunk: "Uh-huh. Any mail?"

Mabel: "Have you heard I'm engaged to an Irish boy?"
Violet: "Oh, really?"
Mabel: "No, O'Riley."

"Is my son getting well acquainted in languages?"
"I would put it even stronger than that," replied the teacher; "I may say that he is actually stranded on them."

THE SELECTIVE SERVICE BILL

the allies of armies. Every democratic nation in every great modern war has gone ultimately to the obligatory system, and it has been our experience and the experience of the British in the World War and in this war, that volunteering after a while had to be prohibited because of the confusion and disturbance which it produced.

(2) The obligatory system, reasonably administered thru the familiar system of local boards, and taking into account not only the needs of the country, but the situation of the individual in regard to occupation, marriage, dependents and health, is the closest approximation to practical justice which can be arrived at. It is as unjust to leave to the whim of the individual the question of whether he will or will not render the service which his country needs, as it would be to leave the payment of taxes to a like method of determination.

VII.—We need not argue at length that if there is to be an army, the training of its personnel cannot be safely delayed until the outbreak of war. The experience of England, which with her vast resources of men has found herself unable to put an effective army in the field because her compulsory service law and training of recruits were only initiated a year ago, is the most immediate and effective answer to the idea that a large and good army can be created on the spur of the moment. The business of the soldier has grown more complex. The modern developments of technique have placed an emphasis on the time required for training. If men are to fight for the safety of their country we owe it to them that they shall not fight ill-trained. For the sake of conserving life as well as for the sake of victory we should see to it that our training is systematic, adequate and unhurried and that our armies go into battle fortified and protected by real skill in arms.

There are only two courses open to us. We can neglect our defenses and live with a sense of insecurity and panic always just under the surface, watching the temper and fearing the reactions of the strong and aggressive, or we can tighten our belts, arm ourselves in full against possible conflict and live, not on sufferance and in fear but with the steady integrity of a conscious strength. The first course is demoralizing and wretched; the second course alone is possible, and an essential link in the pursuit of that course is the obligatory training of an adequate, justly chosen portion of our manhood.

Summary of the Bill
The Bill does not undertake to determine the number of men who should be in training or service in the Army or Navy. That is to be determined by the President and his military and naval advisers, subject always to the provision that the President shall not call any persons for training or service until Congress has appropriated funds for such purpose.

The essential features of the bill are:
Registration—All male citizens and resident aliens between 18 and 65 except those enrolled in the armed forces of the United States, including the National Guard and reserves, shall register.
Categories—Men registered shall be divided into two categories:
(a) Men between 21 and 45, who shall be liable for training and service in the land and naval forces;
(b) Men between 18 and 21, and 45 and 65, who shall be liable only for training and service in home defense units near their residences.

Selection.—The men required at any time for training in peace and service in war shall be selected by lot, subject to the deferments and age groupings below referred to. Until completion of the registration and classification of the men between 31 and 45, the selection will be made from those between 21 and 31. In order that each group called for training will represent a cross section of the eligible age groups, it shall be the ultimate objective that in the selection of men, not more than 87 per cent nor less than 78 per cent shall be between 21 and 31, not more than 15 per cent nor less than 10 per cent between 31 and 38 and not more than 7 per cent nor less than 3 per cent between 38 and 45.

Deferment.—The training and service of men whose employment in industry and agriculture is necessary to the national interest, ministers of religion, those with dependents and those who are unfit shall be deferred under regulations made by the president. Local boards shall pass on deferments.

Training.—Men who are selected and whose training is not deferred shall be trained during peace time for eight consecutive months. The period may be extended if Congress declares the national interest is imperilled. Vocational and educational training will be included and the men will have an opportunity to qualify for officer rank. Pay will be $5.00 a month plus traveling expenses.

For ten years after training, or until they reach 45, trained men will be reservists and subject to additional training for not more than one month in any year and not of more than three years in any five.

Expiration of the Act.—The Act would become inoperative on May 15, 1945, unless continued in effect by Congress.
