Waftings From WANDERING WILLIE

WE had lunch the other evening with "Bill" Childs and we had quite a chat with Bill regarding his corn crop and his "Boston Bean Beverage" and Bill told us lots of stuff we never knew before. You know when Bill happens to be in a talkative mood and begins reminiscing it's worth listening to.

By the way, he told us that he had shipped two tank trucks of his famous bean soup out that morning, piping hot, for Canada, to be condensed down for the British soldiers.

Well, what brought this article about was the tales Bill told about his dog. According to Bill he has the most outstanding dog that ever walked, up on the farm (the same farm where he raised the oats and corn). Here's part of the history and doings of that pup of Bill's:

The dog, according to Bill was easy to train even when a young pup. Before the dog was three weeks old Bill took him out in the woods and in three hours had taught the dog to send wig-wag signals with his tail when he scented birds instead of impolitely pointing. And it was that same afternoon that he discovered this dog had a better smell than the ordinary pup. They came across the skeleton of a deer way up back of the woods and that dog, after sniffing once at the skeleton, back-tracked the deer to where it was born.

He not only taught the dog the wisdom of the woods but of the streams as well. And the pup was so good that after while it would not only bring Bill his fishing tackle just before the fish started biting, but would dig the worms as well. Once when the fish weren't biting very good Bill tossed a half-dollar in the deepest pool thinking it was a washer, and in the dog went, but being unable to find the six bits came to the surface with four pounds of trout and 16 cents in change.

And that dog, according to Bill, isn't the least bit afraid of fire. When the dog was only seven weeks old a neighbor's house caught fire and was rapidly burning down while the Andover firemen were on the way, but the dog ran into the blazing house and not only saved the family cat that was inside but brought out the fire insurance policy wrapped in a wet towel.

Well, we certainly enjoy those little impromptu visits with Bill and the next time he starts to talking about his dog or the farm we'll past it along to you.

Oh, yes, while we're talking, V-C Fertilizer Phil Lynch walked up to us the other day and demanded a correction regarding that corn and oats. "Phil" was real put out about it because we forgot to mention that he furnished the fertilizer—V-C's A super No. 1. We can't blame you for not wanting to get that kind of advertising Phil.

THE bank time-piece evidently does not intend to start. It's right on the minute twice a day but the rest of the time a trifle off. One of our more enterprising and mechanically-minded citizens told us the other day that Andy or John should call for volunteers and run about 12 shifts at hand-turning it with a crank until it decided to run by itself.

THE following was handed to us by a fellow with the statement that it applied to a lot of folks in this burg who just naturally get a kick out of "mud slingin". With the election and all coming up perhaps it is more or less appropriate:

Me, I ain't had much eddication I don't know much whut's whut; But it seems to my way o' figgrin' Poiks are flingin' lots o' smut. Now this mud slingin's dirty biznis, It hands with an awful smack— So be careful when a-throwin' That some don't come a-splashin' back.
