to the construction of the beautiful new building are interestcorporated and having run sucgan funeral home Tuesday after- cessfully for several years, the gift was obtained with little difof the grant, however, was that building be appropriated annually by the people of Andover for its upkeep. This appropriation was voted overwhelmingly at the next town meeting.

The matter of the site was happily solved by Mrs. J. M. Brundage who graciously donated the land. Mr. Otis Dockstader of Elmira was engaged as plans for a building to cost $5,-000. But when Scott Prest saw these plans, instead of taking the ob for $5,000, as most contractors would have done, he said ouilding for the $5,000. So Mr. Dockstader took his plans and in a few days came back with more Prest inspected these, he again said that he could and would erect a still better building for the $5,000, one having floors of steel and concrete, with tile roof. and otherwise made fire proof. Mr. Dockstader who was very much surprised at this unusual attitude on the part of the prospective builder, again went home and drew plans and specifications for a building estimated to be the plans and specifications accepted and the building was erected by Scott Prest at his own figures of $4,750, leaving as Scott said, $250 out of the grant with which to install a furnace. Besides all this, Mr. Prest put parts of the trim, real oak instead of the cheaper materials And this is how Andover came to have a $10,000 library building out of Mr. Carnegie's $5,000
