IS FURTHER EDUCATION WORTHWHILE

By Mary Brown As June 25 draws near many zeniors are starting to give comes after graduation. For them this not only an ending but it is also was hit into the outfield off the a glorious beginning.

Some of the seniors are indefi nite about plans for the future. "The world is in such a mess career with the armed forces," senior boys. The girls too are afraid to take definite steps toward planning for what lies a-

Entering college is considered useless by many today, because they feel this could only be a temporary basis.

The officials of Uncle Sam's draft boards know the value of education and will not take any maintaining satisfactory grades. Well developed minds are have World War III many authorities say it will be a war fought in the science laboratory as well as on the battlefield. For these reasons a college education is more valuable to you and your country now than ever before.

FOURTH GRADE HOLDS PET SHOW

By Mary Fowler Miss Ruth Baker's fourth grade class held a very successful pet and hobby show recently in room 201. Most of the fourth graders displayed interesting and unusual hobbies including a large variety of pets.

Participating in this event were Wrexie Balcom, Carol Ryan, and Virginia Atwell, each of whom brought a pet showing dogs were: Carolyn Brundage, who brought a Pekinese, Alice Barnhart, who had a Beagle, and Bobby Sackett with Boston Bull. Clifford Mather, Bob Conde, and Charles Monroe also brought dogs. Among the more unusual pets were a bantam rooster small turtle brought by Common and two other turtles owned by Victor Burch. Billy Slocum brought a black rabbitt and Kenneth Moag a gold fish.

Joyce Day brought a collection of dolls from other countries and some elephant pictures. Claudette Corwin also brought some dolls and a collection of Donald Duck pictures. John Common brought two model sail boats and a replica of the "Mayflower." Robert Conde also brought a replica of a historical ship "Santa Marie."

Robert Conde and Alberta Phelps each had a collection of many varieties of butterfiles. Francis Adams and Edgar Hoagland brought bird's nests. Robert McClure, Billy Shawl and Donald Harris displayed collections of unusual stones and various types of sea shells were shown by John Common, Robert Conde and Robert McClure. Robert Conde and Richard Lewis

ANDOVER WINS ALLEGANY-STEUBEN CHAMPIONSHIP

Firey "Spider" Atwell, over's gritty righthander, hurled magnificiant ball as Andover downed Campbell in a 3-2 thriller Tuesday, June 12. No ball

Campbell scored first in the initial inning on a safe bunt, a stolen base and a wild pick-off attempt. They scored their second run on an error, a walk and a wild throw. The game was pitching duel between and Pruden until the locals broke into the run column on a walk, erty. a infield hit, a walk and a fielder's choice, and an error which was good for three runs. The Andover ace was so effective that he allowed only two hits and two walks in chalking up his seventh win without a defeat. "Lefty" Harder, the local first hits in three trips to the plate. Andover will now journey to Rochester to play the semi-finals
