farmers is here again, according to Ira Blixt, county agricultural agent. He pointed out that the that every citizen or resident of Federal Income Tax return. The final return and payment, said, is due January 31, 1952. The agent reported that there were some new changes effective this year and a very important one, he said, is the one that deals with the sale of draft, breeding or dairy animals. Taxpayers are advised under these circumstances to treat their gains or losses on all sales of livestock. held for draft, breeding or dairy purposes, as if they were derived tant that all should remain for from the sale of capital assets. Sales of this kind are reported on Schedule D, 1040 and, in most cases, only 50 per cent of the gain from such sales in included in the gross income. The Revenue Act of 1951 provides that, f a sale of a draft, breeding or dairy animal is to be treated as a sale of a capital asset, the following requirements must . The animal must have been owned for 12 months or more. 2. The animal must have been held for draft, breeding or

However, two things could happen which would keep prices at or near 1951 levels. cure of tuberculosis is one of may order more baby chicks in ment. 1952 and therefore hatcheries may draw upon the extra egg supply. Secondly, the agent adds consumers may eat more eggs in 1952 because of the scarcity and high price of red meats. In addition to that, we have about a per cent increase in popula, tion, the agent said, which will have an effect on food consumpion in 1952. The county agent believes that egg and broiler production has a good place on many Allegany County farms, because it serves as a good source of supplemental income, and also in many cases would greatly increase the efficiency of the use of labor, equipment and build-ings. Mr. Blixt also pointed out that the new live poultry auction at Bath furnished a good market for local producers. Considering these factors, the agent suggests that poultry producers at least fill their houses to capacity and perhaps, in some cases, it would be well for some farmers to consider the combination of poultry to a dairy enterprise. However, he warns this is no time to go into debt to expand into the
