Fight Against Disaster! By Mary Brown

When flood, fire, disease or disaster strike a community, the American Red Cross is there promptly to administer aid.

Perhaps the Red Cross workers furnish hot food to the firemen and relief workers, give first aid to injured or furnish blankets and food for those left homeless. But whatever they do

Summary of JV Season By James Connor

This year the Andover sports fans are justly proud of a scrappy hard-driving J. V. team. The J. V's have won 13 games and lost 3 to become sectional champions. All the J. V. games were exciting to the final bell with a hard fighting J. V. team on the court all the way whether losing or winning.

The Andover team showed their ability to play good ball by defeating Canaseraga, Greenwood Alfred-Almond, Scio and Allentown each twice and Belmont, to Arkport, Whitesville and Can-

Choose guests who are congenial with each other. See that your guests, not yourself, are being entertained. Plan for every minute of your party. Keep things moving, with

See that your guests are introduced to one another. See that each guest has someone to talk with and something to do.

Consider those who are timid or are strangers in the group. Dress simply. Do not outdress your guests, or show off in any part of your entertaining. Treat all your guests with the same consideration. Your party is no time for specializing. Forget yourself.
