Welfare Committee to Sponsor Column

As a community service, The Andover News next week will begin a series of short articles which have been prepared by the Allegany County Public Welfare Committee to anwser questions frequently asked about tax-supported welfare activities.

The committee is an independent group of private citizens who work for sound standards of local public welfare administration. In addition, the committee conducts various other programs for community betterment. It is affiliated with the State Charities Aid Association, a private agency operating throughout the
